U. S. Planes Hit Targets 8 Miles From Haiphong; Buddhists Riot in Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's ruling junta vowed today to remain in power until next year in blunt defiance of militant Buddhist demands for its dismissal now.

Obviously confident of its power, the junta risked new air attacks from the militant Buddhists, who have been clamoring for the immediate relinquishment of power by the ruling from the 7th Fleet carriers Hancock and Ranger hit radar in the North Viet Nam's Soviet-built missile defenses eight and 10 miles from Haiphong.

Small crowds of Buddhist demonstrators rioted for the third day in Saigon, but police and troops kept the outbursts under control by wading in with clubs and tear gas. They also let the heavy evening traffic enter streets where the Buddhists installed some small altars as a protest.

Limiting Role
The 20-man military-civilian junta said it would prolong its life by limiting the role of the to win nomination as U.S. senator. But Sen. Paul H. Douglas, Sept. 11, to writing a constitution. It thus rejected the recommendation of its own electoral commission that proposed letting the assembly live on as a legislative body with power to name a civilian government and make laws for it to administer.

The junta's secretary-general, Maj. Gen. Pham Xuan Chieu, said a legislative assembly would be elected three to six months after the constitution.

Misunderstanding Halts Mass March

Courthouse Doors Closed But Civic Leaders Helpful

GRENADA, Miss. (AP) — Officials held clerks at the Grenada County courthouse until 8:30 Tuesday night for Negro voter registrants. Only six came.

"Let the clerks go home," decided civil rights leaders who had led the Mississippi march into Grenada.

No one told some 250 Negroes meeting in a church. They marched to the courthouse only to find the office closed.

"If we can't register (sic), we're going to demonstrate," they chanted.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro leaders huddled with officials in a doorway. Then, standing at the base of a Confederate statue, King asked the crowd to leave.

Milling Stops
"I ask you to be out tomorrow in larger numbers," he said.

The chanting and milling stopped and the demonstrators disappeared. Those who had marched nine miles to Grenada earlier in the day went to tents set up on the Willie Wilson Elementary School grounds. Local people went home.

"It was a breakdown in communication on our part," King told the officials and apologized.

King, Floyd McKissick and other Negro leaders, in planning for mass registrations today, found white civic leaders cooperative.

Agreement was reached to have four Negroes help in the registrations and to keep the bond at $20,000, and scheduled office open longer than the normal Wednesday noon closing.

The officials also agreed to open when he failed to post bond. He was quiet and impassive during the brief court appearance.

He is charged in the decapitation death of Janalyn Jewell, 15, daughter of a neighbor of the Comeau in the La Crosse suburb of Onalaska.

The headless body of the teen-ager was found in a ditch.

225 Mile March
Some of the veterans marchers went to Negro homes to take their first bath in days. They are nearly 100 miles from Memphis, where James H. Meredith started the 225-mile march to the state capital at Jackson.

Meredith was shot the next day and is recuperating in New York.

Aubrey James Norvell, the 40-year-old white man accused of shooting Meredith, failed Tuesday in a bid to get his $25,000 bond reduced. The judge said it had not been proven that his labor organization as representative.

Daley's Bond Issue Okayed

Chicago Mayor Triumphs in Test During Primary

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley scored an across-the-board triumph in a test of his leadership and prestige in Tuesday's primary election.

His once-defeated, six-item, multimillion-dollar municipal bond issue for lighting, sewer, transportation, police-fire and other community improvements carried by a margin of more than 2 to 1.

Two veteran Chicago congressmen backed by Daley's Democratic organization, Reps. William L. Dawson, 80, long-time political leader among South Side Negroes, and Barratt O'Hara, 84 — won despite vigorous campaigns by opponents of less than half their ages.

Comeau Shows No Emotion During Complaint Reading

LA CROSSE (AP) — A convicted morals offender listened with little visible emotion Tuesday as a complaint was read in court accusing him of the mutilation slaying of a 15-year-old girl.

Kenneth Clayton Comeau, 22, captured in a 24-hour manhunt in the Mississippi River bottomlands, entered no plea.

La Crosse County Judge Leonard Roroff named a defense attorney for Comeau, placed the bond at $20,000, and scheduled office open longer than the normal Wednesday noon closing.

Comeau was returned to jail when he failed to post bond. He was quiet and impassive during the brief court appearance.

He is charged in the decapitation death of Janalyn Jewell, 15, daughter of a neighbor of the Comeau in the La Crosse suburb of Onalaska.

The headless body of the teen-ager was found in a ditch.

Tear Gas Used
Car Wrecked, Stores Looted in Amsterdam

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP) — Six hundred police reinforcements poured into Amsterdam today after the most serious riot in the Netherlands' largest city in 30 years.

With some 1,100 policemen on duty, the city was calm again.

Police used tear gas for the first time in the city's history last night to disperse rioting construction workers protesting the death of a bricklayer in a car wrecking, store smashing and some looting was reported after young hoodlums joined in the riot.

Police said 53 civilians and 28 policemen were injured and 30 persons were arrested.

Some 1,500 workers took to the streets. The public prosecutor announced after an autopsy that the bricklayer had a weak heart and died of natural causes.

The workers stormed the offices of the independent newspaper De Telegraaf in protest against its report on the Monday demonstration, called to protest the building trade union's decision to charge nonunion members 2 per cent for cashing their vacation bonuses.

Lunar Visitor Surveyor I takes a picture of its own shadow against the moon's surface as the evening sun furnishes proper lighting. (AP Wirephoto)

Surveyor I Starts Ordeal Of Lunar Night

Has Sent More Than 10,000 High Quality Photographs

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's efficient eye on the moon, Surveyor I, will be permanently blind if its electric heart fails to survive the super-cold lunar night, scientists report.

Surveyor, the brilliantly successful first attempt by the United States to land a spacecraft gently on the moon, was engulfed by the lunar night Tuesday after sending more than 10,000 high quality photos.

The night holds the peril of temperatures near 260 degrees below zero Fahrenheit—cold enough to freeze and perhaps destroy Surveyor's battery, its heart. Lunar night is two weeks long in earth time.

In the last rays of sunlight Tuesday, Surveyor recorded a vivid show, picturing bright, high ridges accented by deep shadows, an eerie, almost surrealistic display.

The most spectacular shot, perhaps, was a picture showing the elongated shadow of the spacecraft cast a great distance across the lunar surface.

Other pictures, made as the sun dipped slowly over the horizon, showed a faint glow on the horizon which scientists said might indicate the moon has a light atmosphere. The gas, they said, could come from the sun or even from the moon's interior.

Discrimination Charged Against American Motors

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two women employees of the American Motors Corp. have charged that the company and United Auto Workers Local 75 discriminate against female workers.

An attorney for Mrs. Diane Kuklinski and Mrs. Virginia Harding, both of Milwaukee, lodged the complaint with the State Industrial Commission.

The complaint charges that women are paid less than men for comparable work, are restricted to certain jobs, are placed in one department regardless of nature of work, and are penalized by a seniority system that favors men.

Company and union officials said the present three-year labor contract is being changed in sections where it could be construed as violating laws against job discrimination based on sex.

The women asked for back pay for income they said they failed to receive because of alleged discriminatory practices.

31 Arrested as Riot Is Halted by Police

'Clear Streets With Smile' Plan Effective in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Five hundred policemen removed more than 2,000 persons from riot-torn streets in a predominantly Puerto Rican area Tuesday night and arrested 31.

Told to "clear the streets and do it with a smile," police held the officer tried to break up a fight. Eleven of the arrests were made 13 blocks from the scene of the riot on Monday night when two homemade bombs were thrown at a police car. The car was not hit.

Police strategy Tuesday night was to stop trouble before it could germinate. Groups were not allowed to form. The arrests were made during brief and isolated rock-throwing episodes.

By 11 p.m. the West Division Street area—used as a basis for novels by author Nelson Algren—was peaceful. Two hours earlier, 2,000 persons milled through the streets on a clear, pleasant night.

A lack of communication between residents and police has been blamed by community leaders for the rioting.

The area, colonized in Chicago's infancy by Polish and German immigrants, gradually has

Fountain of Youth
Remember When Pay Was 30 Cents Hourly
By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is the only true fountain of youth.
But you don't have to stay at any particular age. You can stray at will through all the levels of time you have lived through, from earliest bewildered childhood to the confusion of today. For while we can share our memories to an extent, they still remain uniquely our own.
Perhaps it gives you a feeling of warmth to pause and look back and remember when—
In 1921 Mary Pickford, the lady up front who played the piano in "America's Sweetheart," starred in a film version of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."
That same year, during the depression that followed World War I, U.S. Steel reduced wages to 30 cents an hour.
Everybody felt pretty sure that, no matter how much the world changed, the penny postcard would always be with us.
In the era of silent movies a juvenile delinquent was a kid who had to be thrown out of the wagon through the theater for pitching spitballs at the lady up front who played the piano.
The corner grocery store sold more lard than it did butter.
When you couldn't even afford to spread on your breakfast toast, brother, you came from a poor family.
A feather bed was a sign of prosperity.
Most horses wore blinders.
Just like people today were sun-glasses.
The horse that drew the peddler's barefoot in summer, you didn't limp to the drug store to buy a hood usually had on a straw hat.
Only the educated suffered from arthritis.
Everybody else over 40 suffered from "the rheumatiz."
The best known one-way street in America was the proverbial one that led over the hill to the poorhouse.
Young ladies never carried umbrellas.
They carried "parasols."
If you stubbed your toe going barefoot in summer, you didn't limp to the drug store to buy a bandage.
Mother simply tied a clean rag around the throbbing joint.
When the doctor made a home call, every small kid in the block yearned to peek into his little black bag to see if it contained a squirming new baby.
After all, that's where they came from.

Seattle Negroes Plan to Protest 'Black Sambo'
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Two Negro groups plan to ask the Seattle Library Board to take the book "Little Black Sambo" from its shelves, says Keve Bray, executive director of the Central Area Action Committee.

He said his committee and the Washington State Negro Historical Society will make the request.

School Board Okays Fence, Bleacher Pacts

Equipment Tabbed For AHS-East and Einstein Buildings

Contracts for fencing and bleachers for Appleton High School East and Einstein Junior High were approved Monday by the board of education.

A combination contract for fencing for both schools, totaling $20,746, was awarded to Cyclone Fence Co., Chicago; and a combined contract for bleachers for both schools, totaling $28,438, was awarded to Standard Steel Bleacher Division, Three Rivers, Mich.

The board also approved the recommendation that easement be granted to the city for underground power lines to be installed for the new high school.

Overhead Lines
Originally, overhead power lines were to be installed but since plans to construct Buchanan Street have been abandoned the overhead lines would be unsightly and potentially dangerous, according to Supl. William Spears.

The lines, which will carry 4,400 volts, would be located over a playground area if strung overhead," Spears said. In other business, the board advised William Knuth, business manager, to sell the Elm Tree School, located near the old airport on route 1.

The school, belonging to the Appleton Joint School District 10, has not been used by Appleton for the past few years but has been utilized by the Hortonville district.

Elm Tree School
Since Hortonville has been building additions to its schools, the Elm Tree school will not be used next school year. According to a report to President Johnson, the school has 53 rooms, 53 per cent of the assets belong to Hortonville and 47 per cent to Appleton.

There is a $21,000 debt on the school which will be paid off after the building is sold.

A gift by the AHS class of 1966 was accepted by the board. An exterior bulletin board, with "AHS-West" on it, costing about $350, will be put up, in front of the school. According to a letter from the student council, there is no effective way of announcing events at the present time.

The board also decided to "give all possible aid" to a new program, sponsored by the Junior Great Books Foundation, as outlined Monday by Mrs. Jean Johnson.

Promote Reading
The purpose of the course, according to Mrs. Johnson, is to promote reading and discussion among the elementary and junior high pupils and will serve as an enrichment course to their regular classroom work. Youngsters would meet in small groups under the guidance of adults who have been trained by the foundation, and discuss classical books. It was emphasized that this

Care for Elderly — II

Medicare Shows Facility Shortage

Editor's note -- Even before it goes into effect, the medicare program seems to be pointing to some glaring shortages in the nation's medical facilities. The following second of four articles explains the effect of the program on nursing homes, bracing for an onrush of elderly patients.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

However medicare weathers its first critical months — the predicted increase of elderly patients July 1 — it will come upon a second deadline that could potentially jam up hospitals even more than the first.

That deadline is Jan. 1, 1967. On that day, nursing home provisions for persons 65 and older go into effect.

The problem is two-fold. First, patients must spend three days in a regular hospital before qualifying for the nursing home care for chronic ailments. Second, there is now and has been a shortage of capable nursing homes and beds.

An Associated Press survey of hospitals and doctors across the country indicates that the great worry is that elderly patients seeking nursing home care, unable to find it, might back up into the general hospitals.

What medicare seems to be doing, even before it goes into effect, is to point to some glaring shortages in the nation's medical facilities.

Emergency Cases
In any case, hospital administrators say, increasing the number of beds devoted to chronic, long-term cases could hamper general hospital ability to care for the acutely ill from the acute appendix case to the emergency room patient.

Said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in a report to President Johnson: "There is a significant shortage of health personnel and certain health facilities that have been evident for some time.

Medicare, of course, did not create these shortages, but by putting older people in the same position as others to compete for services, the program will have the effect of adding to the present demand for medical services."

Many hospital authorities fear that the nursing home provisions might backfire.

Clarence W. Bushnell, administrator of the hospital in Bridgeport, Conn., said, "I foresee a massive increase in patients in January, 1967, to qualify for nursing home care."

Bed Shortage
In Michigan, administrators also expressed concern about program would have nothing to do with classroom courses and would be purely voluntary on the part of both the pupil and discussion leader.

"The only two things we need from the board," Mrs. Johnson said "is the approval to circulate letters describing the program to children and parents at the schools and use school facilities when they are available."

The board will act on these requests after Spears has had an opportunity to further discuss the program with Mrs. Johnson.

the shortage of qualified nursing beds. J. Henry Irwin, head of Reed City Hospital, said "the thing we are concerned about is that many cases that were being treated at home of a semi-chronic nature will be admitted because they now feel it is their right and the obligation and duty of the doctor to admit them."

Much the same fear was voiced by Dr. Tenero D. Caruso, a Los Angeles surgeon. "I can say that all of the people in rest homes will want to go into hospitals to conform with these regulations, and this will be a terrific load that the hospitals will have to carry for a while," he said.

Not all the hospitals nor the doctors expressed this kind of fear.

Change for Good

Some said in fact that the change would be for the good. Municipal and county hospitals, in the more populous, wealthier states like California and New York saw a shift in patient admittance, with many patients now seeking private hospitals rather than government-sponsored institutions because the medicare bill would now pay their way in smaller, often more expensive facilities.

In some areas nursing home provisions were not expected to have an adverse impact, but actually a good one.

John Brewer, executive director of the Hospital Council of Southern California, said many county hospitals will now be freed of chronic disease loads because of the paid nursing home care.

How much can be done between now and the New Year's Day deadline to increase the number of nursing home beds is a question without an answer at present.

To many critics of medicare, the three-day requirement is the worst and potentially most damaging of the program's provisions. It will take effect in winter, when acute disease loads and respiratory ailments are at their peak.

And all of these elements will be complicated by a still greater problem that has been with medicine for some time, and now seems even more critical — the shortage of nurses and trained hospital help.

That is the third obstacle that medicare must face.

Son of Sheriff Who Killed 'Kid' Can't Make Jury

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A defense attorney asked prospective jurors in a burglary trial Monday if they have ever been related to law enforcement officers.

"My father was in law enforcement back in the Territorial days," said Jarvis P. Garrett of Albuquerque, son of Pat Garrett, the sheriff who killed Billy the Kid in 1881 in southern New Mexico.

Garrett, after a challenge, was ordered stricken from the jury list. No reason was given.

North America Will Provide Pulp for Europe, Expert Says

Tells Institute Seminar Continent Will be Most Economical Source

Discussing the 11th Annual industry seminar that began Tuesday at the Institute of Paper Chemistry are, from left, Bruce Burnett, Union Camp Corp., Princeton, N.J.; Morris C. Dobrow, international trade consultant to the American Paper Institute, New York City, and first speaker at the seminar; Russell Elston, Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co., Port Edwards, and Kyle Ward Jr., seminar director, Institute of Paper Chemistry. (Post-Crescent Photo)

He predicted that European nations then would rely heavily on wood pulp from North America. Mills in Europe will convert the pulp to meet local needs for paper, he said.

Europe's need for wood pulp in the next decade will be met, in part, by new mills now being built in British Columbia, the international consultant stated.

"Serious Effect"

"But there is great fear that these new British Columbian mills will start producing before they are needed," Dobrow said.

"This might have a serious effect and lower prices in our markets which now are stable and profitable."

He predicted that Canada will become a leader in pulp production just as she now is in newsprint.

But Canada, although enjoying a privileged tariff relationship with Great Britain as a member of the Commonwealth, faces discriminatory price problems in the Common Market as does the United States, he pointed out.

He said that U. S. producers now have to absorb the full duty on paper products to remain competitive with the Scandinavian nations in Common Market countries.

Pressure to Increase

The pressure on North American producers will increase even more after Jan. 1, 1967, when Common Market tariffs on paper and pulp are scheduled to be eliminated, he said.

To date the U. S. has scheduled meetings with the Common Market countries to discuss all commodities except paper, he noted. French resistance is holding up these talks, he said.

World consumption of paper will double every 15 years, Dobrow predicted. However, after 1975, he expects Latin America, with 29 per cent of the free world's forests, to become an important pulp producer. At present only 2 per cent of the world's pulp is produced there, he said.

Appleton Man Fined $50 on 2 Check Counts

Fines of $25 and costs on each of two worthless check charges were levied this morning against Francis Penterman, 119 N. Outagamie St., after he changed his plea to guilty on the counts.

Penterman, on May 13, pleaded innocent of issuing worthless checks for $24.12 Dec. 15 at Rougeau's Super Valu, and $27.61 Dec. 16 at Great Surplus Stores. Both business places are in Appleton.

The guilty pleas were entered this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. The court was told that restitution has been made, not only on the two checks for which charges were filed, but also for several other worthless checks. Charges had not been brought on the other counts.

Offer to Buy Old City Garage Interests Board

City officials want more information from the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce on its recent offer to purchase the old city garage for industrial development purposes.

The board of public works said Tuesday it wanted to know what industry the Chamber was representing.

At the same time the board said it would obtain firm information as to when the new municipal garage will be completed on the city's northeast side. The target date for occupancy is Oct. 1.

Interested in Offer

Board members indicated they were "very interested" in the Chamber's offer and would be willing to assist with industrial development. It will take the matter up at a special meeting June 21 at which time appraisals will be compared.

In other action, the board recommended:

—City officials meet with the Outagamie County Board to discuss the possibility of forming an industrial park on the old airport property now owned by the city.

—Grading an area between Franklin and Parkard streets at the urging of Ald. Al Stoegbauer (4th), who said rubbish and debris was a hazard and an eyesore.

Deny Paving Measure

—Denial of a resolution of Ald. John Ayers (12th) to pave the west side of the city hall lawn to provide an additional 20 municipal parking spaces and landscaping.

—Concurrence in a plan commission recommendation that the city appropriate money for an annexation study if federal aid is not available by Sept. 1.

The study is being pushed by Ald. John MacDonald (7th) at the home, police said.

—The waiving of a $1,700 assessment for sanitary sewer construction for a group of Douglas Street residents. The Viola St. The money was taken during the night.

GREEN BAY — Three Appleton motorcycleists charged with roughing up a Marinette priest after stopping his car near Sauamico April 17 each were fined $100 and costs in Brown County Court Branch 2 today after pleading guilty of disorderly conduct.

James Laux, 18, 2515 W. Fourth St.; Jerome Baer, 30, 1706 N. Rankin St., and Joseph L. Laux, 27, 1740 N. The trio was charged with beating the Rev. Francis P. Reinke as he drove along U.S. 141 in an area where there had been a number of disturbances following some motorcycle races in Sobieski.

The priest's car reportedly forced one of the cyclists to pull off onto the shoulder of the highway, whereupon the defendants chased the Reinke vehicle for several miles and forced it to pull over on the side of the roadway.

They then pulled the priest, who was not in clerical garb, from the car, threw him to the ground and struck or kicked at him.

Dist. Atty. Robert Flatley, in asking Judge James W. Byers to impose the maximum $100 fine for disorderly conduct, said he viewed the offense as "a very serious matter," and classed the actions of the defendants as "taking the law into their own hands."

Attempted 'Divorce' Defeated

Works Board Keeps City Sealer In Appleton Inspections Unit

City Sealer Roger LaBerge Mayor George Buckley agreed, was defeated in his bid Tuesday to have his office divorced from the city department of inspection.

The board of public works was unanimous in its vote that LaBerge not be designated a separate department as he one daily," Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) said. "I see no valid reason to change this."

A legal opinion indicated the city sealer of weights and measures could be in his own department or a division within a department just as long as the duties of the office are carried out.

On His Own

LaBerge, who previously indicated dissatisfaction with being in the inspections department in accordance with an ordinance passed by the council more than a year ago, said he wanted to be on his own.

He indicated his reluctance to be answerable to the Charles Magnette, director of inspections, and claimed his work had been downgraded as result of the reorganization which put all the inspectors under one head.

LaBerge said it was his desire to have his own office in the city hall basement where a room was available, and he said transition period.

The board was reminded the city needed a complete department of inspections, and may have to add personnel in the future, to participate in the federal government's urban reorganization which put all the inspectors under one head.

Magnette defended his department, comprised of various inspection divisions, and said city hall basement where a room was available, and he said transition period.

"I have not changed the duties or functions of the city sealer in any way," Magnette said. "The one thing I have done though is to request that he submit daily activity reports to my office."

The board, by its action, upheld Magnette and his department's table or organization.

In addition, it recommended the appointment of Donald H. Natrop, Darboy, as deputy plumbing inspector — a position the city has attempted to fill for the past two years and had to increase the pay scale three times before doing so.

For State Legislators A 'Set-Up' for Knowles

Democratic Committeeman Says Governor Trying to Look Good

OSHKOSH — The veto of the marked under the Nelson ad pay hike for state legislators was a setup for Gov. Knowles to look good in an election year, David Carley, Democratic gubernatorial hopeful said Tuesday.

Carley said he was sure that the legislators would not have passed such a bill had they not been assured that it would get past the governor's desk.

Youths' Jail Term Extended 30 Days on False ID Card Count

It was a setup and I am surprised that the legislators did not see it, Carley said during a luncheon meeting.

Warren Knowles is going to be hard to beat and this move made him look better in the eyes of the voters in that he stopped the legislators' move to give themselves a raise. Carley commented.

I think the legislators deserve some consideration for compensation but it should become a permanent part of an annual budget session as opposed to the biennial budget session.

We now have a budget of $1300 million and this necessitates a session each year with an annual budget session, he said.

He said the principle issue during the upcoming campaign against Knowles will be an attempt to bring back to state government a position of leadership specifically a person with his own ideas and one who is not afraid to state his position.

With a well conceived and hard fought campaign Knowles can be beat, Carley said.

Explaining his stand on various other issues, Carley said we have to get a man who will as governor return to the concept of the protectorate of the state's natural resources instead of fighting the federal government to the point where state resources are left in the back ground.

As head of the resources development program under former governor Gaylord Nelson, Carley said he would attempt to renew the interest and progress that had been

Rockwell Standard Hit By Wildcat UAW Strike

NEENAH — A standard system for preparing budget requests by the various departments in the city was introduced and approved by members of the finance committee Tuesday.

Ald. William Hout, who was named to head the special committee set up by resolution last January, reported on the new forms which will be used recently to complete the report by all departments at budget time to assist councilmen in determining anticipated expenses for the coming year.

Hout's committee, along with help from other municipalities and the State Public Expenditure Survey, prepared four standardized sheets so budget requests would be uniform. The work was done over a six-month period and committee members labored for four full days recently to complete the report.

The Second Ward alderman an accountant with Marathon Products will resign his position on the council effective July 15 when he will begin work with Texas Instruments Inc. in Dallas, Tex. He offered his services to explain the system to department heads before he leaves Neenah and other members of the committee will be available to outline the standard procedure prior to the budget hearings, Hout said.

The committee suggested the reduction of the 88 accounts used in 1965 to 31 general accounts to facilitate bookkeeping records. The forms will be filled out by separate accounts in each department and will contain information on past budgetary requests and an itemized list of the coming year's needs along with explanations for any deviation from previous budgets.

Hout said the new accounting system would allow aldermen to better control the city's money and would provide a tool for councilmen to do an effective job of budgeting. He felt the system wouldn't involve extra time spent by the clerk's office and once the system was established

Neenah Police Ask 12 Per Cent Salary Increase

37½ Hour Week, Time and a Half Pay Also Demanded

NEENAH — Salary negotiations for Neenah city employees for 1967 got off to an early and impressive start Tuesday when the Neenah Professional Police-men's Association presented demands that included a 12 per cent boost in salaries across the board and a 37½ hour work week.

Ald. Peter Fara, committee chairman, read the list prepared by the association and its attorney to members of the finance committee.

The association retained an attorney, Sam Sigman of Appleton for the first time early this year to assist in bargaining with the city officials for next year's salaries and benefits. The council recognized the association as the sole bargaining agent for all policemen with the exception of the chief and two captains at the May 4 meeting.

The demands are based on salaries and conditions offered by local industries and the report cited inflationary trends and the work load of policemen as reasons for the demands.

Included in the package are:

- A 12 per cent across the board hike in salaries which would cost the city at least $24,000, according to Ald. William Hout.

- An eight hour day and 37½ hour work week, which could require the hiring of additional police officers.

- Time and one-half pay over 37½ hours for training, school and target practice time, and for year's needs along with explanations for any deviation from previous budgets.

Hout said the new accounting system would allow aldermen to better control the city's money and would provide a tool for councilmen to do an effective job of budgeting. He felt the system wouldn't involve extra time spent by the clerk's office and once the system was established

May Force Retirement At Age 65

Finance Committee Of Neenah Favors Compulsory Plan

NEENAH — City employees in non elective positions will be forced to retire on their 65th birthdays if the council approves a recommendation of the finance committee.

The committee voted in favor of a mandatory retirement age of 65 Tuesday with a starting effective date of July 1, 1967.

Some members felt the ordinance should be changed as of next January while others favored giving the present employees nearing retirement age time to adjust and set the date at Jan. 1, 1968. However, the July 1, 1967 date was agreed upon.

The present ordinance calls for voluntary retirement at 65 with yearly reviews up to the mandatory retirement age of 70 years.

Three city employees are now 65 years or older, one of whom plans to retire this summer. By the time the proposed ordinance goes into effect, another man will have reached his 65th birthday. Other employees nearing retirement age include one 63 year old and three each aged 62, 61 and 60.

Library Location Selection Delayed

MENASHA — The library board was persuaded Tuesday afternoon to put the brakes on preliminary discussions of a new public library until the city's comprehensive plan has been drawn.

Until now the board had been enthusiastic in discussions of possible locations for the new library. At the urging of board member Carl E. Snyder, however, the board agreed informally Tuesday that little can be done until the master plan is completed.

Jerry's Fingertips Pink After Long Heart Surgery

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
ROCHESTER, Minn. — Nine year old Jerry Burr has pink fingertips.

One of "the bravest little guys" in the world to his family and friends in the neighborhood at 846 Sheboygan St. Menasha, Wis. now has an 80 per cent chance to live.

And there is hope — where there was no hope.

Since birth it has been touch and go with Jerry and his parents had to seek help from heart specialists. The answer Mr. and Mrs. Brian Burr received was always the same — Nothing can be done.

In a telephone call a few weeks ago a surgeon from Mayo's Clinic who had examined Jerry one year ago told the parents that a new heart procedure he had developed might help their son.

Jerry's heart impairment did not allow sufficient flow of blood to his extremities and his fingers and toes were ashen and blue. The use of an extra energy was out of the question but his mind was continually on being one of the fellows. The surgery involved repair to the valves and all four chambers of the heart.

After six hours on the operating table Friday, Jerry has now been given an 80-20 chance — that is the story his pink fingertips tell. The first words uttered by the game little fellow last Friday were, "Look, Mom, they're pink."

In exchange for his almost daily fight to live and half-existence coupled with his parents' courage to put their son's life and their hopes in the surgeon's hands, Jerry now can look forward to playing actively with his fourth grade friends at St. John's School. There can be a bike, a baseball glove, cavorting in the swimming pool — things that spell living for a nine year old boy.

Building Commission Sets Stage for Expansion at King

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — An appropriation to prepare plans for the construction of a second nursing care building at the state's Grand Army Home for veterans and their dependents at King has been approved by the state building commission.

The project, to be built during the next two to three years, will supplement the nursing space capacity at the institution to be provided by a first nursing building that will be submitted to contract this month.

Most of the financing will come through federal grants made available under a special act of Congress for such nursing services in veterans' institutions operated by the states. John Moses, director of the State Department of Veterans' Affairs, said he wants the plans drafted now so that the state will be able to compete for another aid grant with the many other institution applications around the country.

Modify Plans
Moses said the plans drawn for the first nursing building can be quickly modified to serve for the construction of the second facility.

The new building will replace an old, 81-bed frame building which is now being used, and also will permit a small increase in the total nursing capacity at the home, the commission was informed.

The institution, which now has a resident list of about 535 men and women, is gaining in population at the rate of about 30 a year, and soon will experience higher enrollment demands as the state's population of veterans and their dependents grows older. A long-range expansion of all facilities at the home is now being drafted for submission to the building commission. Projects would carry through the decade of the 1970's.

er company will use the property for future expansion of its downtown service center and administrative facilities.

R. D. DeLand, water commission chairman, said the utility had a vested interest in the transaction and would be willing to make the $12,250 down payment required within 60 days of approval of the overall transaction.

Mayor George Buckley, who headed the city's negotiating committee, said he hoped the council would act favorably without delay. The board of public works directed City Atty. David Geenen to prepare the necessary legal documents.

Terms of Payment
According to payment terms, the city will pay the power firm $12,250 within 60 days; $50,000 by February, 1967; and $50,000 by July, 1968.

It was agreed by both parties that no interest would accrue.

DeLand told the group the water utility was "willing and eager" to pick up its portion of the tab which would eventually be charged to the overall plant expansion and pipeline project.

He said the utility in turn would buy the power company gas plant land from the city.

Water Department Director William Gallaher indicated the proceedings were satisfactory to him. Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. was represented by Maurice Lewis and legal counsel.

Calumet Delays Action On Wolf River Proposal

Planning Commission Executives Outline Basin Proposal to Supervisors Tuesday

CHILTON — Any action on the possibility of joining a larger regional planning commission was delayed Tuesday by the Calumet County Board pending further study by the County Park Commission.

Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River group, and William Morris, executive director, outlined the commission's program to the Supervisors.

In April the Technical Action Panel recommended the county consider preparing a comprehensive plan so that municipalities could take advantage of the many federal and state aid programs available to counties having such plans.

It was thought that Calumet County would be wise to consid-

Winnebago To Get Funds For Airport

Rep. Race Says Okay Expected Soon for $1 Million Grant

WASHINGTON — Winnebago County should get approval of a $1 million federal grant for airport expansion at Oshkosh within a few days.

The announcement was made here today by 6th District Rep. John Race (D-Fond du Lac) who said he has received grant approval assurance from "both the White House and the Federal Aviation Agency."

Race said the federal grant would assist Winnebago County, which is in his district, with its major $2 million expansion project.

Request in Washington

The Fond du Lac lawmaker made his announcement after receiving information earlier that Winnebago County's application to construct a new runway that will accommodate jet air service next spring has now reached Washington for approval.

He explained there are still some engineering problems to be worked out before construction of the new runway can begin at the Oshkosh airport.

"But these problems are not so great that the grant or project will be delayed," Race said.

chior, Appleton, in mitigation of the defendants' actions, pointed out that tempers had become heated over the traffic incident which preceded the altercation with Father Reinke.

No Connection

He also emphasized that the defendants were in no way connected with a Milwaukee motorcycle group that damaged several taverns and caused a great deal of confusion the same day in the Sobieski area.

The disorderly conduct charges had been bought by the district attorney's office prior to the filing of a battery complaint by Father Reinke and his attorney, former Circuit Judge Arnold Murphy, Marinette. This morning, Father Reinke agreed to the dismissal of the battery charge on advice from Murphy.

After the dismissal of the battery charge, which could have carried a maximum fine of $200, Flatley indicated he would immediately press prosecution of the disorderly conduct. The guilty pleas were entered by the defendants at this time.

Extensive Costs

In addition to the $100 fines, the trio will also have to pay extensive court costs, including the cost of the jury and witness fees and expenses for witnesses ordered in from as far away as Marinette.

Appleton Man Fined $35 for Drunkenness

Terry Kapp, 21, 1012 W. Summer St., this morning was fined $35 and costs or 14 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of intoxication.

States Benefits

Bubolz stated the main purpose of the commission, organized four years ago, was the protection and improvement of natural resources.

He stated that many counties working together could accomplish more than a single county.

Counties belonging to the Commission are Forest, Langlade, Waupaca, Waushara, Winnebago, Outagamie, Menominee and Shawano. In addition to Calumet, Green Lake and Fond du Lac Counties have also expressed interest in membership.

Bubolz listed the seven subjects the commission was studying: water, land use planning, recreation and natural beauty, transportation, population and cooperation on the state, federal, regional, county and local levels.

He compared the Wolf River commission to a clearing house, where all agencies worked together to find solutions for their common problems.

Grants Available

William Morris, executive director, pointed out that membership in the commission would enable municipalities in Calumet County to qualify for grants for water and sewer development under the Farm Home Administration. These grants are available to communities with populations of less than 5,500; all of Calumet County would qualify.

He stated the membership fee is eighteen-ten thousandths of a mill based on assessed valuation. Calumet County's rate for the remainder of this year would total approximately $200 a month, he said.

However, the comprehensive planning would be a separate cost partly covered by the Farm Home Administration programs.

The County Park Commission and Technical Action Panel expect to make a recommendation on Wolf River membership to the board at its August meeting.

In other business, the board voted to increase the county judge's salary $100 per month until his term expires in January, 1968.

At the March meeting, representatives of the Calumet County Bar Association had asked for a $4,000 supplement to raise the judge's salary from $13,500, (the state minimum) to $17,500.

Grants $1,200 Increase

The supervisor felt that an increase of $1,200 yearly was more within the county's means at this time. A new state minimum of $17,500 will be in effect at the start of the next term.

Irma Sontag Named Clerk For Calumet

Former Deputy Says She Won't Run for Post

CHILTON — Irma Sontag was unanimously appointed by the board of supervisors to serve as Calumet County Clerk to serve out the unexpired term of the late Roland E. Miller.

Miss Sontag served as deputy county clerk and bookkeeper for five years under Miller. Although she accepted an interim appointment to fill the vacancy until January, 1967, Miss Sontag said she will not run for the post in the November election.

Nomination papers for the office have been taken out by Donald Schwobe, route 2, New Holstein, a farmer, and by Harold Woelfel, route 2, New Holstein, who is presently serving his third term as clerk for the Town of Charlestown. Woelfel is employed by the Carnation Milk Co. Both will run on the Republican ticket.

Miss Sontag officially appointed Ruth Ann Mueller, stenographer, as deputy county clerk so business may be transacted as usual in the event of her absence from the office.

County Police Radio Gets Emergency Power

Outagamie Board Authorizes Funds to Hook Up to Civil Defense Generator Unit

Hookup of the county's police for installation of necessary radio system with the Civil equipment Transfer of $500 Defense emergency generator from the county's general fund was approved Tuesday by the to the sheriff's department fund Outagamie County Board.

The resolution, which received unanimous approval, also provided that the hookup was to be made in the contract to Langstadt Electric budget two years ago. However, the project was never started and the appropriation was returned to the general fund.

Howard Rathbun, Outagamie-Appleton Civil Defense director, said that with the new hookup if normal electrical transmission should be interrupted in the city, police radio communications would not be disturbed because power would come from the Civil Defense Emergency generator.

In other action Tuesday, county supervisors accepted the resignation of John F. Ayers of Appleton as vice chairman of the Outagamie County Safety Council.

Incumbent Ousted In South Carolina Senatorial Primary

Illinois Democratic Congressmen Renominated Over Negro Foes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
South Carolina voters overwhelmingly rejected incumbent Democratic Sen. Donald S. Russell in Tuesday's primary balloting in favor of former Gov. Ernest F. (Fritz) Hollings. But incumbent Illinois Democrats won renomination in the nation's other primary.

Both Senate seats were up for renomination in South Carolina. Besides the Russell-Hollings race, Democratic State Sen. Bradley Morrah won a landslide victory over attorney John Bolt Culbertson, who ran as a pro-civil rights candidate.

Hollings will face State Sen. Marshall Parker, who switched from the Democratic party to the GOP earlier this year, in the November election. At stake is the two-year unexpired term of Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., who died last year. Russell was named to replace Johnston.

Morrah will take on incumbent Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond this fall for a full six-year term.

Tuesday's balloting for Hollings and Morrah was not limited to Democrats, since voters are not registered by party in South Carolina.

The Illinois election was enlivened by two bitter Democratic primary races on Chicago's South Side — both won by incumbents backed by Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Strong Challenge
In the 1st District, Rep. William L. Dawson, at 80, a long-time leader of Chicago's South Side Negro population, easily defeated two other Negro contenders. One of his challengers,

In the 2nd District, Rep. Barratt O'Hara, at 84 the oldest man in the House, stood off a strong challenge from State Rep. Abner Mikva, an independent-minded Democrat.

Chicago voters also approved a series of bond issues worth $195 million for city improvements by a better than 2-1 margin. Critics of Daley's administration had urged its defeat.

In statewide elections, Republican voters nominated Charles H. Percy, the industrialist who lost a try for the governorship in 1964, for the Senate. His fall opponent will be incumbent Sen. Paul H. Douglas.

Two other incumbent Illinois congressmen, Democratic Reps. George E. Shipley and Kenneth J. Gray of southern Illinois, won out over primary opposition. The other congressional incumbents were unopposed.

Eisenhower Nominated
Two famous names will be on the Illinois ballots in November. Earl Eisenhower, younger brother of the former president, was nominated for Cook County (Chicago) clerk on the Republican ballot and Adlai E. Stevenson III, son of the late U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will run as a Democratic candidate for state treasurer.

One of the major issues in the South Carolina race between Russell and Hollings was Russell's appointment to Johnston's Senate seat. Russell was governor at the time of Johnston's death and resigned in mid-term to take the Senate appointment from his successor, former Lt. Gov. Robert McNair.

Hollings hit hard during the campaign at what he termed Russell's virtual self-appointment to the Senate. Incomplete returns early today showed that Russell was ahead in only two counties throughout the state and trailed in his home county of Spartanburg.

Hollings is a close friend of New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Russell campaigned for President Johnson during the 1964 election.

Fake Nuclear Attack Hits 32nd Division

CAMP MCCOY (AP) — The first of 10 fake nuclear attacks was launched against field troops Tuesday in the summer exercises of Wisconsin's 32nd Infantry Division.

The National Guard's commander, Maj. Gen. John A. Dunlap of Fox Point, said he was pleased in general with the evaluation reports on units involved in the military maneuvers.

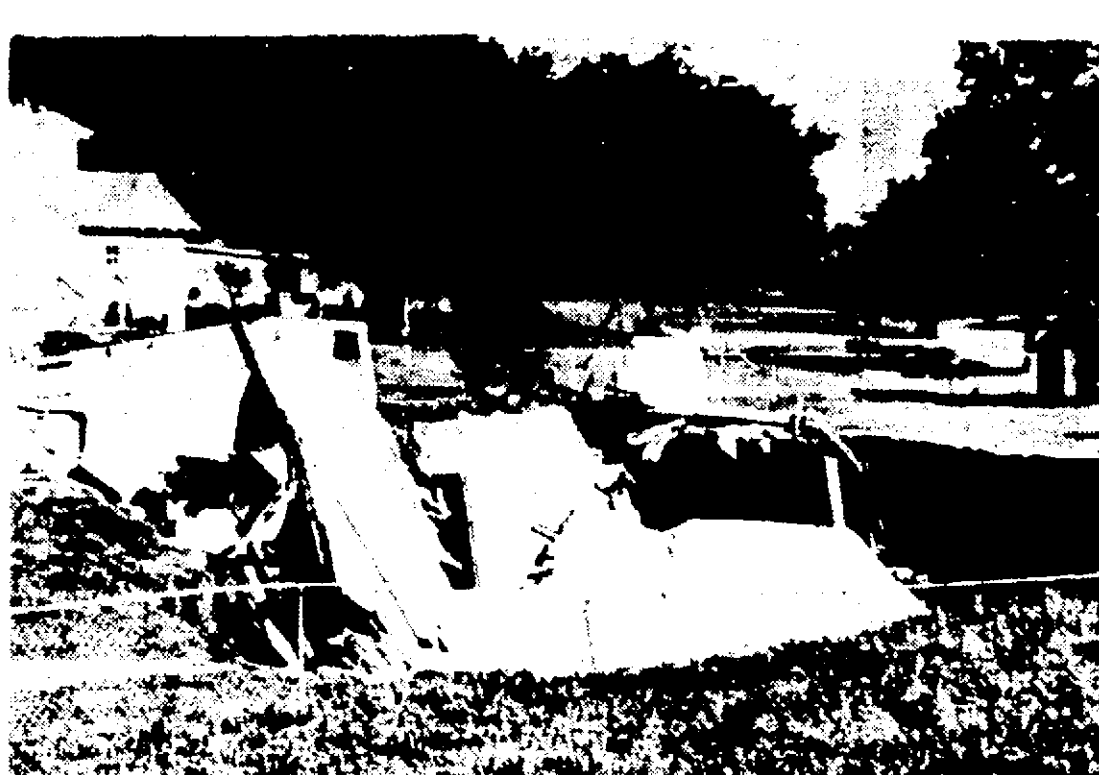

Operation Roadrunner is being staged to prepare the 3,800 members of the guard's combat ready Selected Reserve Force Brigade for army training tests next week.

The 173rd Engineer Battalion of Onalaska detonated the fake nuclear blast which sent a realistic fireball and mushroom cloud climbing hundreds of feet into the air.

Dunlap referred to the troops' accomplishments as superior. Army evaluators gave high scores in particular for morale and leadership.

Fire Blazes in Inaccessible Rocky Home of Dying California Condor

By HOWARD C. HEYN

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A California condor, soaring high above the coastal mountains, could view this scene today.

Endless miles of rocky, brush-coated ridges, studded with mile-high peaks and slashed by deep ravines, all of it shimmering under a searing sun.

Cut off from the 20th century by lack of roads, it is a wilderness of isolated grandeur, haunt of deer, black bear, puma—and the vanishing condor.

In its heart is an undulating sea of flames.

A plane crash last Saturday set this scene. Two died in the crash. Within moments fire flashed across the rugged, almost inaccessible slopes of the San Raphael Mountains northwest of this scenic resort on the Pacific.

60,000 Acres

For firemen this is a job as tough as they come. One veteran forester called it one of the worst spots to fight a blaze which, in the first four days, swept across 60,000 acres.

More days—crew bosses won't estimate how many—lie ahead before containment can be expected.

The battle is raging in the center of the San Raphael wild area, so designated because there are no roads. This lack of access is not a fire prevention measure but a government restriction designed to preserve the precipitous mountain terrain in its natural state.

Build Road
But when fires start in such remote country, suppression crews suffer the handicaps of this protection. Wherever possible, roads must be built to admit men and machinery. This

Heckler Bites, Bruises 3 Policemen

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Three policemen were treated at a hospital for minor injuries after carrying a woman heckler to a patrol wagon during a stormy meeting of the Milwaukee Common Council Tuesday night.

The outbreak came during debate over a pedestrian overpass at an intersection in a predominantly Negro neighborhood. The council eventually approved the overpass for the intersection, scene of recent demonstrations by residents of a public housing project.

Mrs. Mabel Turner, 35, a spectator, was asked to leave the council chambers after she interrupted the session several times to object loudly to various statements. Police carried her to a patrol wagon when she declined to move from a hallway outside the chamber.

Mrs. Turner lost a shoe as she struggled. Police Sgt. Richard Duszynski, 37, was treated at a hospital for a bite on the left wrist.

Two patrolmen were treated for minor cuts and bruises.

The council approved the overpass with only two dissenting votes. The residents of the area had argued the project was a necessary precaution to insure safety of children crossing a street which has become a major downtown feeder artery because of freeway construction.

New Sukarno Face Hearing to Revive

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesian Congress strip away his titles, including his lifetime presidency, when it meets. Officials in Jakarta feel that if militant pro-Sukarno factions come to believe that the president is in danger, they will take retaliatory action that will mean new bloodshed.

Suharto's armed forces spearheaded the drive to rehabilitate Sukarno's image. Army generals have been touring the country stressing in speeches that the president must continue in office and that the army does not want him removed.

Purge of Reds
The purge of the Communists that followed their attempted coup last October was accompanied by a rising chorus denouncing Sukarno's pro-Communist policies and his near-dictatorial rule. Under this pressure the president turned over his powers to Lt. Gen. Suharto, the army strongman who had emerged from the wreckage of the attempted coup.

Suharto and the government he formed have tried to retain a facade of power for Sukarno because he is the only national leader recognized by the Indonesian masses. Students and other critics, however, have kept up their demands that Provisional People's Consultative

Officials Plan Public Housing For Indians

Reuss Calls July 6 Meeting in Neopit To Discuss Details

A meeting to plan for public housing in Menominee County has been arranged for July 6 in Neopit by Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Milwaukee).

In a letter to officials of Menominee Enterprises, Inc. and Menominee County officials, Reuss said he is arranging for representatives of the Public Housing Administration, the Economic Development Administration (EDA) and a Madison builder to attend the meeting to assist with technical details.

Reuss, coordinator of the project which was designated by the Menominee County Board, said that although the meeting will focus primarily on working out the details for the housing projects, other projects for which the county is seeking federal assistance also will be discussed.

Housing Authority
He said the county board prior to the July 6 meeting should establish a five-man public housing authority and appoint five commissioners.

Reuss, who has been active in obtaining federal assistance for the Menominees, also said that prior to the meeting officials of the county board, Menominee Enterprises and the public housing authority should consider the number of housing units needed, the kind of housing desired, the number of projects and the sites for these projects.

At a meeting in March with several representatives of Menominee Enterprises, Reuss said it was thought that at least two projects would be needed, one at Keshena and one at Neopit, each housing 30 to 40 families.

Access Important
In considering sites for the projects, Reuss suggested that accessibility to places of employment, recreational areas and sewer and water facilities be taken into account. He also suggested a site selection committee be appointed, comprised of members of the county board, Menominee Enterprises and the proposed

'Nervous Nelly' Remark Hurt I.B.J.'s Standing

Some Democratic Congressmen Curb Praise for President

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A Midwest-ern Democratic Congressman has removed a large picture of President Johnson from the basic political literature he plans to use this fall in the Congressional campaign.

In Pennsylvania, another

Evans Novak

Democratic congressman whose campaign flyers featured his own and the President's picture, Mr. Johnson had a "favorable" rating of 62 per cent as of last the 1964 campaign, has relegated the President to an inside months' ago, the President's popularity is still holding up fairly well in such states as Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Maine.

In a populous bedroom suburb of New York City, no fewer than 10 longtime party precinct workers — most of them middle-class lawyers and businessmen — have quit working for the Democratic party, to the despair of top party officials. The reasons, growing disenchantment with President Johnson mainly over the war in Viet Nam.

"Nervous Nelly"

What specifically alienated some of these grass roots politicians in charge of local fund-raising and registration was Mr. Johnson's crack at the "nervous Nelly" critics of his war policy. The deterioration of the President's political standing from the post-election high of 1965 in some cases goes beyond Viet Nam. A western Democratic break in Viet Nam, the President's Congressmen who weathered a primary challenge this spring and politically supports President Johnson across the board. The speaker privately of an "unbalance of this session of total contempt" of many voters Congress and this in turn could erode the President's political effect, he says, is reputation, so much of which is "deadly" for Democratic office built on the claim that he can hold his own against the "nervous Nelly" critics.

In this irrational contempt entering the most dangerous can be found part of the reason period of his Presidency for the precipitous decline in the President's popularity as measured in the polls he used to take pleasure in showing White House visitors. But the overwhelming issue is the war in Viet Nam, a conclusion borne out by a study of the geographical patterns of the President's reduced standing.

Romney Leads in Iowa
In Iowa, for example, the respected Iowa Poll conducted by the Des Moines Register and Tribune showed that, whereas the President was running ahead of Michigan Gov. George Romney in January by 49 per cent to 31 per cent, Romney now runs ahead of the President by a surprising 46 per cent to 35 per cent (with the balance in each case "undecided").

Romney runs much further in front of Vice-President Humphrey, who is one of the President's foremost supporters in backing the U. S. objective in Viet Nam. But when pitted against Sen. Robert Kennedy, who has hedged his position on the war, Romney comes out 10 points behind Kennedy.

Iowa is the center of the old isolationist belt where opposition to the war is high. In some other states there is far less anti-war fervor. For example, in West Virginia, which has the largest percentage of war veterans of any state in the Union, Mr. Johnson had a "favorable" rating of 62 per cent as of last the 1964 campaign, has relegated the President to an inside months' ago, the President's popularity is still holding up fairly well in such states as Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Maine.

Michigan Poll
In Michigan, Mr. Johnson — a reliable poll 51 per cent to 49 per cent, a decline of three points from an earlier Johnson Romney sample this spring.

These somewhat brighter signs, however, are the exception, not the rule, of the President's sharply reduced standing in the country. Far more significant are the indisputable signs of deep worry, clearly evident among some of Mr. Johnson's staunchest supporters. By Democrats who will be running for office this fall, the steep decline strongly suggests a break in Viet Nam. A western Democratic break in Viet Nam, the President's Congressmen who weathered a primary challenge this spring and politically supports President Johnson across the board. The speaker privately of an "unbalance of this session of total contempt" of many voters Congress and this in turn could erode the President's political effect, he says, is reputation, so much of which is "deadly" for Democratic office built on the claim that he can hold his own against the "nervous Nelly" critics.

Candidates Must File for Kimberly Board by July 5

School District Sets Election, Business Meeting for July 25

KIMBERLY — The board of the school district received final approval for federal aid under the Title I program. This calls for candidates to file papers of work to be extended into the regular school year. A third reading and speech correction part of the program calls for special tutoring in other fields where teachers deem it necessary. Federal aid pays the entire cost of the program.

Candidates must be residents of Kimberly since the two men whose terms expire are village residents. The terms of James Kluge, and James Siebers expire this year. Both positions are for three years.

The school board election is set from 1 to 8 p.m. July 25 in Kimberly High School. The annual meeting is scheduled the same day with a budget hearing at 7 p.m. and the annual business meeting at 8 p.m.

Hire Personnel
Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools, was authorized to hire a full-time secretary to serve both the high school and elementary school supervisory personnel in the senior high school. Myron Huth, business manager, was instructed to advertise for a janitor to work at the high school.

The superintendent also will study the possibility of an 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift for maintenance personnel, so someone would be in the school at all times.

Board members inspected construction work at the high school and noted the second floor and industrial arts section will be completed when school reopens in the fall. But it appears the band and chorus area addition may open a little later.

Hamann said this would not hamper the music or chorus program since much of the work can be done outside or in other areas of the school in the early fall.

Board members learned that

Plans will be discussed for the installation of post and auxiliary officers at a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. June 22 in the clubrooms of the village hall. Russ Kettner, Shiocton, ninth district commander, will be installing officer for the legion and Mrs. Paul Doerfler, ninth district president, installing officer for the Auxiliary.

Tight Controls On Campus Spending

Building Commission Indicates It Will Watch UW Development

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The State Building Commission intends to keep a close watch on the planning for the establishment of two new branch campuses of the University of Wisconsin in northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin.

Explicitly stated in the release of the first $100,000 by the commission for preliminary campus studies is a reservation that the money will be controlled by a subcommittee of the commission and that it will be used only for "initial plans."

The subcommittee is the one that handles state university affairs for the commission, and consists of Sen. Jerris Leonard, a leading Republican in the senate, and Assemblyman Angelo Greco, also of Milwaukee, and one of the leaders of the Assembly's ruling Democratic majority.

Close Supervision

An informed commission source explains that the close planning fund control by commission members does not indicate, or imply any reservations about the legitimacy of the campus development ideas in the two regions, but only a desire to supervise closely the work of state administrative officials including those of the University of Wisconsin.

When Leonard made the motion for the release of the first planning money, he emphasized the word "initial," and pointedly explained that it did not include authorization for the employment of architectural services for the preparation of actual construction plans.

The first money will be used mostly for preliminary surveys, including a complete mapping of the campus sites chosen for the school, and an outline of the building priorities schedule as desired by the university administration. As the first reports are filed and approved, additional planning money will be released, officials said. Thus the commission, which is an arm of the Legislature, plainly intends to keep a close watch on the campus development project.

Assessment Hearing Reset In Kaukauna

Public Works Board To Discuss Proposed Rates for Road Work

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works Monday night cancelled the June 20 public hearing on proposed assessment charges for the improvement of Plank Road and Green Bay Road and rescheduled the hearing for July 18.

The public hearing for assessments on Arthur Street, Blackwell Street and Division Street will be conducted as scheduled on June 20. A residential assessment rate of $5.50 a lineal foot and a commercial zone rate of $7.75 a foot has been set for these streets.

Since Plank and Green Bay roads are a part of the state highway system, specifications for the improvement are higher than a normal city street improvement project, thus assessments differ. The board is studying a 1961 ordinance establishing assessment procedure in an effort to determine whether residents living on streets which are part of a state or county system could obtain some relief from the higher costs for a heavier street.

Fix City Streets

The city engineer was requested to arrange a meeting with the county highway committee to determine whether county equipment would be available to help the city with a program of scarifying, oiling, chipping and rolling of approximately 10 miles of city streets this summer.

The board agreed to contact the board of education to determine if one block of Ann Street and one block of St. Mary Place could be graded and leveled at the same time property around the new Quinney School is leveled, with the work to be done by a contractor hired by the board of education. The work would be an extension of the school board contract and be billed back to the city.

Rap Suggestion To Allow Reds On State Ballot

Sen. Roseleip Says Bill Would Enhance Prestige of Party

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Action taken in April recommending that communists be allowed to run on their own ticket in state elections was strongly condemned Tuesday by State Sen. Gordon Roseleip (R-Darlington).

Roseleip, speaking at a meeting of the interim Legislative Council election laws committee, said that the recommended change in state election statutes has been widely publicized by the American Communist party as a party victory.

On the front page of a recent issue of "The Worker," organ of the Communist party in the United States, a short article reported that the action taken by the election laws committee "placed the Communist party on the ballot of the State of Wisconsin."

Incorrectly Reported

Republican party state chairman Ody J. Fish defended the action of the committee, and Republicans or Democrats or said that the Communist party independents claiming that they were not allowed to run as the action "as was to be expected."

On April 21 the committee, of which Roseleip is a member, voted to recommend to the Legislature as a part of a bill revising state election laws and procedures, that state prohibitions against the participation of the Communist party be ended.

Roseleip was absent from the meeting, and Tuesday asked to be recorded in the committee records as voting against the measure.

Justice Continues Case Against Shiocton Youth

A disorderly conduct case against Dan Leigh Bates, 20, route 1, Shiocton, has been continued to this afternoon at the order of County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Bates appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday afternoon on a complaint signed by his wife, Arletta. The charge stemmed from a family disturbance.

Judge Keller set bond at $150.

Paper Institute Given $119,000 for Research

A $119,000 grant has been made to The Institute of Paper Chemistry for a three-year study of fundamentals of forest genetics.

Eliminate False Excuse He said that by allowing Communists to run under their party label the false excuse used by some Communists in the past would be removed.

They no longer could run as action of the committee, and Republicans or Democrats or said that the Communist party independents claiming that they were not allowed to run as the action "as was to be expected."

steaks, roasts or special ham-burger varieties ... the smart homemaker will organize a barbecue or outdoor meal around her spouse's favorite. Big, juicy steaks, grilled on the barbecue by the master himself ... or one of those family-sized sirloin cuts grilled to perfection over glowing coals. Add to this some unusual sauce, created for the occasion, a tossed salad, crusty bread such as garlic or sesame and a Strawberry-Cheese gelatin mold, packed with tangy bits of blue cheese for zest. Serve with cups of hot, steaming coffee and the day is made! If a dessert is needed, serve wedges of chocolate fudge cake or hot fudge sundaes with homemade chocolate brownies or other cookie favorites from the recipe file. If Dad is one of those who like hamburgers ... as do most young fry ... try one of the Texas Appleburgers that utilizes canned pie-sliced apples with a combination of ground beef and pork. If steaks are on the menu for charcoal broiling, select the meat best suited to the family for flavor, size and price. No matter whether the choice is a strip steak, club, sirloin, T-bone or porterhouse, no special skill is needed to broil the meat to perfection. There are a few tricks to keep in mind and these comprise seven steps. Follow these in-structions and success is assured. For an easy-do dinner ... but delicious ... serve thin strips of broiled steak on slices of hot French bread spread with a distinctive blue cheese or herb-onion butter. Add sliced toma-toes, relishes, French fried onion rings, a fresh salad, a cool dessert and beverage.

- CHARCOAL BROILED SIRLOIN STEAK
1. Select a steak 1 1/4 to 2 inches thick. Allow 3/4 to 1 pound of meat per serving.
 2. Trim excess fat from outer edge of steak to prevent blazing fire; score remaining fat to keep edges of steak from curling during cooking.
 3. Use charcoal or briquettes which burn without flaming or odor and give a constant even heat.
 4. Start fire 40 to 60 minutes ahead of time so coals will give a uniform heat.
 5. Rub grill with oil to keep meat from sticking to grids.
 6. Broil steak on hot grill 3 to 4 inches above a bed of glowing coals for medium rare, 4 to 6 inches for medium. Cook first side about half of total time. Turn with long tongs; brush with favorite steak butter or sauce (see recipes below). Finish cooking to desired degree of doneness. For medium rare, about 35 to 40 minutes total.

Secretary Has Valid Retort for Complaint of Cleaning Woman

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a secretary who would like to say a word to Minnie, the cleaning woman. Her job is to clean, isn't it? So what is she beefing about?

And what on earth is a secretary supposed to do with orange peels, apple cores, pencil shavings and paper cups? There are no garbage cans in our office and the wastebasket is the only place to dump these items. Maybe Minnie thinks we should carry the trash home with us. And what business is it of hers if we leave shoes under our desks?

Now about turning off the copying machines. Please tell Minnie (and all other overly interested cleaning women) to keep their pea-pickin' hands off this equipment. Modern copying machines will not wear out if they are allowed to run continuously and electricity isn't that expensive. The copying machines in our office are supposed to be left on because it is more costly and time-consuming to start them up every day than to keep them running.

If Minnie would pay more attention to the dirt in the corners and the mop marks on the walls she wouldn't have time to find fault with the both our families think we are secretaries — File For Future Reference

Dear File: I have heard from hundreds of secretaries and what I hear makes sense. O.K., Minnie, how about it? What are secretaries supposed to do with orange peels and apple cores and paper cups when there are no garbage cans available?

And now about those copying machines? I checked a half dozen office managers and four said they turn off the machines at the end of the day. Two said they leave their machines running continuously. So, to be on the safe side, the cleaning women should not touch the equipment. Are you listening, Minnie?

Garozzo opened the jack of clubs from the West hand. Naturally, he considered opening a spade but decided against it. The club lead looked safer. Still, it allowed Ira Rubin to make three notrump with the North-South cards.

Rubin played a low club from dummy, and East won with the king of clubs. Now declarer was ready to run six hearts and two clubs as soon as he got in.

East shifted to the queen of diamonds, and Rubin played low. When East continued with the jack of diamonds, Rubin played low again. West had to play his ace, and the battle was over.

Enter Kehela

Where did Kehela enter the scene? The Canadian expert held the same cards as Garozzo in the other room of the match. Instead of opening the jack of clubs, Kehela led the five of spades. It may not look like much of a difference, but it defeated the contract.

If declarer took the first trick with the queen he would have to give up a trick to East to

Status of Women Keynotes 'Matriarchal Society A False Image'

OSHKOSH — The image of official in a high policy position in America as a "matriarchal society" is false and based on superficial and inconclusive evidence, generally gathered by a male visitor from abroad, according to Mrs. Viola Hymes, Minneapolis, who addressed a regional Status of Women conference here this morning.

A member of the Minnesota Commission on the Status of Women, Mrs. Hymes keynoted the day-long conference at Reeve Memorial Union, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. She spoke to some 200 women and the few men participating.

Mrs. Hymes said status of women commissions and conferences throughout the country are concerned with equal opportunities for women to contribute to society as citizens and as minority group in job discrimination, pay, promotion, political persons.

American men may be biased, she said, but they continue to manage the nation's money, make its laws, and govern the country.

As for women's spending attitudes, she said, "so that women may own all the money, the spending is for home and family and entails the family bookkeeping chore. If the woman has a sizeable estate, it's managed for her by a male trustee — banker, or lawyer men — toward a female estate lawyer or bank.

Concluding, Mrs. Hymes said, "Our goals are two-fold in character, for ourselves as individuals and for the world in which we live. And these two twins of goals are like Siamese twins with one circulatory system. Cut them apart and both will die."

Dr. Kathryn Clarenbach, chairman, Wisconsin governor's commission on the status of women, was to conclude the conference with a summation of findings.

Mrs. Ruth Nelson, WSUO associate dean of students, is chairman of the conference with Dr. Harold D. Crouse, director of extended services as co-chairman.

Mrs. Larry Ullmann

groomsmen were Clifford Ullmann, Jon Dahle and Gary Davister. Arnold Malvitz and Ronald Wiesner ushered.

A reception was held at Combined Locks Pavilion, Combined Locks.

After a honeymoon trip to northern Wisconsin and Canada, the newlyweds will live in Appleton.

The bride is employed at the Aid Association for Lutherans, Mr. Ullmann, who received an associate degree in electronics at Oshkosh Technical Institute, Tony.

also attended the University of Wisconsin Green Bay Center and will complete work for his bachelor's degree at Stout State University, Menominee.

World in Normal State Of Uneasy Fuss, Fret

WASHINGTON (AP) — It wouldn't be normal if the world wasn't uneasy. This is a very normal time, full of fuss and fret.

Just as opinion polls show dwindling public confidence in President Johnson's handling of the war in Viet Nam, his administration pumps out information that things are looking better there.

But Premier Nguyen Cao Ky hasn't yet suppressed the Buddhists demonstrating against him; one day after another seems unpredictable; and the administration's optimism may be premature.

leaves the West more puzzled than ever.

In recent years the Supreme Court irritated policemen nationwide with restrictions on questioning suspects in a crime.

District attorneys and police were crying: "no more."

This week the court went all out and laid down more restrictions in this field than at any time in history. The police moans were nationwide.

With the opinion polls also showing Johnson's popularity at its lowest point, you might think the would-be presidents among the Republicans would be perk-ing up. Just the contrary.

Two of them who made the Society programs through Congress in 1965, looks a bit bogged down in 1966.

The only other Republicans who now look like the most likely prospects — Michigan's Gov. George Romney and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon — aren't talking about it.

Understanding Can Aid in Menopause

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you suggest a book for a husband to read in order to understand his wife who is going through very disgusted when I have these spells. — Mrs. S.S.

I suggest my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," which you can obtain by sending 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper. Both of you should read it.

The booklet points out that menopause is a trying time for many women (a few go through it very easily, but the majority have at least some symptoms) and an understanding husband can help his wife over the rough spots.

But when a woman doesn't do anything to help herself — you refuse to see your doctor — then it is understandable that a husband might well resent it.

Going into a pout or a cry talking and act mad for several hours. I can't seem to control my actions.

I have been told to get shots nervous tension is expectable from my doctor but I don't want to start them as I am not quite excuse for making family that bad, but my husband gets life miserable.

A fuller understanding of what menopause does and doesn't mean may help you sort out your thoughts and stop expecting your husband to "read the way you think he ought to" whenever you have a black mood.

Do your part; then you will have reason to expect your husband to do his.

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently gave birth to a baby girl (my eighth child) and she had two teeth. A nurse claims that this is a sign of syphilis. I have had an obstetrician with all the children. If this were true, wouldn't he have told me?

The nurse has told several people, including my mother. — Mrs. O.M.

There is no truth in what the nurse says. If she doesn't stop such talk, I suggest that you consult an attorney.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son has Perthes disease in his hip, and has worn a brace for nearly two years. Friends and relatives say, "Why not take him to another doctor?" There isn't anything to do except keep pressure off the leg, is there? We took him to a specialist and are continuing with our family doctor. — Mrs. D.B.

There is no way to speed up the healing process, so don't let your friends and relatives pressure you into shopping around for other doctors. Your boy will be all right, but it takes time. A lot of time.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have two sons, aged 16 and 11, and would like your advice as to having them circumcised. Is it too late now? Would it be painful? — E.J.

Circumcision at this age isn't necessary unless there are symptoms indicating that it ought to be done.

There is increasing opinion that routinely circumcising every boy baby man mean that a

Effect of 'The Pill' Expected To be 10-Year Study Topic

Study Possible Danger From Prolonged Use of Contraceptive

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—Government researchers say they hope to launch a study of perhaps 20,000 American women for at least 10 years—to try to answer a vital question:

Is there any long-term danger—such as the possibility of developing cancer—in the prolonged use of oral birth control pills or mechanical contraceptives?

The pills are being used by an estimated 5 million women in the United States alone.

And the government, represented by the Public Health Service's National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, has taken the first steps to explore whether a massive, controlled study among women using "The Pill," or other artificial contraceptives, could be carried out.

Taking a Chance

The institute, one of the National Institutes of Health, has awarded a contract to the District of Columbia Public Health Department for a pilot study.

The study—just getting underway—follows by more than a year testimony by Dr. James A. Shannon, director of the National Institutes of Health, before a congressional committee, that until the question of any health hazard is settled, millions of women may be taking a chance by using the controversial pills.

However, neither Shannon, nor any other governmental health official has recommended that use of the pills be curbed, and various scientific groups and individuals—including a special committee of the World Health Organization have declared that:

In the 10 years since the pills were developed—including five since the first ones were placed on the American market no evidence has been produced to link them with specified diseases concerning which some investigators have voiced fears.

Possible Diseases

These diseases include cancer of the breast, the cervix, and the endometrium (lining of the womb); also thrombophlebitis (blood clots in the legs) and cerebral strokes.

Indeed, Dr. Gregory Pincus, Worcester, Mass., developer of the pills, said in a recent report to the National Academy of Sciences that various studies by other investigators indicate the pills appear to be potentially protective against both cancer of the breast and cervix.

Pincus also said there's justification to explore the possibility that long-term use of the pills might help protect women from developing atherosclerosis, the form of hardening of the arteries which many doctors suspect as a possible contributor to heart attacks.

Not Critical Enough

Dr. Philip Corfman, an official of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, when asked for comment on the WHO committee report, told a reporter:

"The institute feels that the WHO committee was not critical enough in its examination of the issues—that is, the possible long-term effects on the health of women, or on children who might be born while such women were taking the pills, or after they stopped taking them."

He said the WHO committee report stressed what has not happened so far—as distinguished from what might happen.

Noting the WHO committee ended its report with a statement that more study is needed to try and determine any dangers from use of the pills, Corfman added:

Studies Necessary

"We agree—and a little more strongly—that (long-term) studies are necessary, and we are going to do our best to undertake them."

Government researchers say that in any such long-term study, primary emphasis would be on studying possible adverse effects of the oral pills.

They told a reporter a minimum of 3,000 to 5,000 women using the pills would be needed for study to have a reasonable chance of detecting any risk of cancer of the breast or cervix—entrance of the womb. And, if it were found necessary to have "controls"—that is, women purposely not using the pills—the total number required might be between 12,000 and 20,000. Of these, half would be pill users, half "controls."

The scientists indicated that ies are needed to explore the possibility of metabolic changes—such as diabetes—and psychiatric difficulties developing in women using the pills.

Similar Concern

Dr. Roy Hertz, scientific director of the institute, and formerly of the National Cancer Institute, voiced similar concern in a previously unpublished report which was made available to a reporter.

Hertz emphasizes that not enough time has passed since the oral pills were introduced—and not enough studies have been made on a sufficient number of women—to gauge whether prolonged use of such materials constitutes a health hazard for healthy young women.

The eight varieties of birth control pills on the market employ manmade versions of the female sex hormone "estrogen" and of the male hormone "progesterone."

There are "serious limitations in our knowledge of the potential long-term effects of estrogen-progesterone combinations, and therefore it is mandatory that further clinical experience be gained under properly controlled conditions of observation pills are premenopausal women, and followup," Hertz says.

Hertz, a pioneer in treating certain forms of cancer with chemical, says doctors pre-ascribing the pills should bear in mind that all known human cancer-causers exhibit a "prolonged, latent (silent) period," and that, for most of these carcinogens, the latent period is about a decade.

"In most instances," he says, "no detectable objective basis for anticipating the ultimate carcinogenic (cancer-causing) response is apparent during the period of latency."

Outlining his fears that the estrogen component of birth control pills might offer a particular hazard with regard to breast cancer, Hertz says:

"It is frequently stated that although estrogens have been employed clinically for 25 years of the downward trend in (for purposes other than contraception), the incidence of breast cancer has not materially changed and that only an extremely limited number of cases of breast cancer in women have been reported to be specifically associated with estrogen therapy. These generalizations ignore some serious limitations in our epidemiological knowledge over the past 25 years."

For one thing, he says, "Past clinical experience relates almost entirely to the use of estrogens for the control of symptoms in women of menopausal or postmenopausal age"—whereas women using the birth control it appears to work on a different principle in that 60 to 70 per cent of women tested still ovulate, but don't get pregnant.

Remove Concern

Corfman, alluding to the development (by the Syntex Laboratories, Palo Alto, Cal.) said "it's (potentially) very exciting...since, if women continue to ovulate, (while using birth control pills) it might remove some theoretical concern regarding potential adverse effects."

1. Population experts doubt that The Pill has played a major role in the declining U.S. birth rate.

Fertility Rate

A recent report by the Princeton University Office of Population Research said:

"It is obvious that The Pill is by no means THE explanation for the decline in fertility...for several reasons:

But there is no present indication when the Pope will issue his long awaited pronouncement that will either modify or continue the Roman Catholic Church's ban against artificial methods of contraception. Neither is there any clue whether the commission will recommend not prevent fertility rates from a change in the Church's position.

2. A new, still-experimental, all-type of birth control pill has been developed. It consists only of a synthetic form of progesterone or the male sex hormone, as distinguished from estrogen-progesterone combinations. And

Heat Wave, Floods Take Toll in India

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—At least 353 persons have died in a 10-day heat wave in the eastern Indian states of West Bengal and Bihar, and officials fear the toll may be much higher in rural areas where many deaths aren't reported.

The temperature hits 120 degrees daily in many areas. No relief is in sight. Thousands of poisonous snakes driven from cattle and other livestock have been killed, and the drought has seared badly needed crops.

Some 300 miles to the northeast, in Assam State, the flooding Brahmaputra River has driven hundreds of thousands from their homes. Vast areas of rice, vegetables and jute have been ruined.

In the Sylhet region of East Pakistan, adjoining Assam, official reports said 12 persons had been drowned.

Residents of more than 450 villages in the Chhatak District were reported living on their rooftops, fending off hundreds of relief is in sight. Thousands of poisonous snakes driven from

Housewives Surround Garbage Truck in Spot

WARREN, Mich. (AP)—Angry housewives blockaded a garbage truck in suburban Warren for two hours as a result of a labor disagreement. Public Service Director L. Mason Capitani limited the amount of garbage to be collected per household to two cans after DPW workers, in a contract dispute, had refused to work overtime. About 35 housewives blocked a truck at an intersection Tuesday in protest against being prohibited from emptying cans themselves. Then they dispersed peacefully.

White Sox Sign Jim Magnuson, WSU-O Pitcher

Southpaw Receives
'Sizeable' Bonus,
Reports to Foxes

The Chicago White Sox, this morning, announced the signing of Jim Magnuson, their third choice in the recent major league draft.

Magnuson, a Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh pitcher who lives in Marinette, was signed to a Fox Cities Foxes contract by Glen Miller, White Sox farm director.

A left-hander, the 19-year-old Magnuson has posted a 9-2 record for the Titans in two seasons. His over-all record for the Marinette Legion team and WSU-O is 31-8.

The 6-foot, 2½-inch, 188-pound Magnuson will report to Goodland Field Monday.

Magnuson will receive what Miller describes as "a sizable bonus," and the White Sox will also give him a scholarship for his remaining two years at WSU-O.

Stops Appleton in Legion Game

Frailing Pitches No-Hitter

BY TIM PETERMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

When Appleton and Marion collided in an American Legion baseball game at Goodland Field Tuesday night, Fox Cities fans got an impressive preview of a pitcher who could possibly be playing for the Foxes if and when he signs with the Chicago White Sox.

Ken Frailing, Marion pitcher who threw four no-hitters and led his high school team to semi-finals of the state tourna-issued 11 free passes. His teammates committed four costly errors.

Tom Kristof and Tom Brandenburg led Marion's attack. Brandenburg collected four hits in five times at bat, drove in one run, scored one himself and stole three bases.

Kristof had a hit in two official times at bat to drive in a run. He also stole three bases to set himself up for two scores.

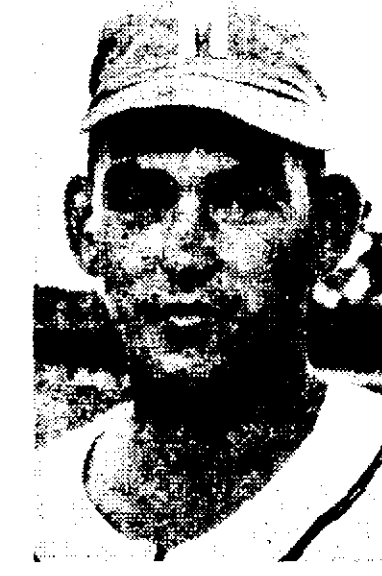

Marion had ample opportunity to tally additional runs as they stranded 13 runners. Two innings ended with the bases loaded.

Thursday night Appleton will meet Clintonville at Goodland Field.

ment, hurled his first 9-inning contest of the year (high school games go seven innings) and made it a no-hitter.

In pitching a 6-4 victory, the fireballing southpaw set down 22 batters on strikes. He fanned at least one batter in each inning as every Appleton player fell snaking Wisconsin's Kettle Mo-record field of cars will zip around the twisting Road America course Saturday and Sunday, June 10-11, in a June Sprints program.

The entries for the seven races have reached 282 for the largest number ever to appear on the hilly four-mile course.

The two-day program is culminated with a 160-mile feature race Sunday that is considered a wide-open affair.

Top drivers Jim Hall and Hap Sharp of Midland, Tex., passed up the Sprints to race at wild and issued three of his five Le Mans, France. Another lead-bases on balls. He walked the first man, then struck out the Milwaukeee, has retired, while next two. Two more walks, plus Walt Hansgen of Bedminster, a couple of passed balls and a N.J., was killed in a European wild pitch brought in three runs, run earlier this year.

In the seventh, the Appleton team scored its first run after feature event will include Jerry Hansen, Minneapolis, Minn.; Bud Gates, Indianapolis, Ind.; and Dick Durant, Florissant, Mo.

Losing hurler Gary McIntyre ran into problems of his own as the six runs scored off him. He were all unearned. He scattered seven hits as he went the distance with 13 strikeouts, a worthy feat in itself, since the Marion Legion squad contains eight of the nine players who started on the high school team that finished so high in the state tourney.

McIntyre had control problems throughout the tilt as he Cuban Athlete Given Political Asylum in U. S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban athlete given political asylum in the United States says more than 30 Cuban trainers at the Central American and Caribbean games in Puerto Rico are secret policemen.

"If it were not for that, many more might defect," said Juan Pablo Vega Romero, 18, a bantamweight wrestler.

Vega, who arrived here Tuesday from San Juan, said he decided to defect because he was tired of being afraid.

"Fear in Cuba stems from uncertainty and the fact that you can't trust your neighbor. He may tattle on you to the Communists," Vega told a news conference.

He said he planned to live in Chicago with his brother-in-law, Bernardo Cortes.

Vega said he escaped from the Olympic Village in San Juan Sunday night after removing his Cuban sweater and replacing it with one a Puerto Rican athlete had given him.

'Victory Will Come Around Greens,' Says Palmer

Nicklaus Favored to Win U. S. Open

By ROB GREEN
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jack Nicklaus was the favorite — as usual — going into Thursday's opening round of the United States Open Golf Tournament held even though the tight, testing Olympic Country Club layout doesn't figure to be on more greens course.

"If there is a favorite, it has to be Jack," said defending champion Gary Player, the little South African who is gravely disturbed about his game.

"It's going to be won around the greens, not on driving," said Arnold Palmer. "And Jack is going to be on more greens than anyone else."

It seems a contradiction in terms, until two members of golf's Big Three start explaining about the other.

"Those greens are very small, to favor long-hitters Nicklaus over a course that has been extremely trying in practice rounds."

"Jack has that soft lob 6,727 and would appear to favor the position men. Each carries a par 70."

Complaints About Rough The early arrivals had nothing but complaints about the deep, clinging rough and Dey had it cut back to four inches Tuesday.

"It's still difficult," said the man who makes the Open courses tough. "It has to do with the nature of the grass," he said, making clutching motions with his hands. "This particular type of grass grabs the ball, holds it."

"Ben Hogan told me it was one of the fairest courses he has ever seen for an Open."

Where Bellerive stretched The field of 133 pros and 38 amateurs faces four rounds of coaching for reasons of health, but he remained a staunch basketball fan. And, he never quite "retired" from coaching, since he was starting to help his grandson — a junior high cager — with the fine points of the game.

Seims, a soft-spoken, calm-mannered leader, ranks as perhaps the best coach of defensive basketball the FRVC has ever had. In 1947-48, for example, when AHS won the league title with a 13-1 record and was 16-2, over-all, 10 of the 18 Terror foes were held below 30 points and two of them failed to hit 20. The 1950-1 title team held its foes to a typical 41.6 average for the season.

Ole Jorgensen, long-time Neenah High School basketball coach before his retirement a year ago, recalls that Seims' teams were noted for their defensive play and rebounding. "They did a terrific job on defense," said the Rocket athletic director.

Despite the fact that their basketball teams faced each other once or twice a season, Seims and Jorgensen became good friends and often went fishing together.

Jerry Hopfensperger, one of Seims' final two all-conference players (Bob Goemans was the other) said "The players had tremendous respect for Coach Seims."

"Hoppy," who went on to star for Marquette University and who is now coaching the Preble High School team, recalls what an attribute Seims' calmness was. "He assured us we could do the job, and we knew we could." In addition, the great success enjoyed by AHS' zone defense gave both the coach and his players confidence, Hopfensperger said.

Seims' ability to make adjustments was shown typically after the first Manitowish game of his final season. The Ships beat AHS and imperiled Terror title

Perfect Relief Stint by Miller Aids Oriole Win

Colavito Has 4-Run Homer in Cleveland Split With Boston

RY HAL ROCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

A funny thing is happening to Stu Miller on the way to his first no-hitter.

He keeps running out of innings.

Baltimore's abominable slow-man won his fifth game of the season Tuesday night, finishing up with three perfect innings as the Orioles rallied for a 2-1 victory over New York.

That gave the 38-year-old relief specialist a string of 6 2-3 hitless innings in his last three game-ending appearances. Sure, Sandy Koufax does it faster, but speed never has been one of Miller's specialties.

They like to kid Miller about his limited repertoire of pitches. One seems slower than the next. Then they try to hit him and it's no laughing matter.

Develops Fast Ball

Actually, it may surprise American League hitters, but Miller claims to have developed a fast ball in his old age. "I've never been a fireballer," he admits modestly, "but my fast ball is a lot better now than when I was younger. My arm seems to get stronger every year."

The veteran right-hander, who was 14-7 last year, has appeared in 23 of Baltimore's 58 games and has finished 14. He has seven saves to go with his five victories.

Baltimore's victory combined with Cleveland's split against Boston lifted the Orioles into undisputed possession of first place. Cleveland beat the Red Sox 8-7 in the first game as Fred Whitfield drove in five runs but dropped the nightcap 11-7 with George Scott hammering two homers for Boston.

Elsewhere, Minnesota tripped Kansas City 6-3, Washington ended an eight-game losing streak by beating Detroit 3-2 and California clouted Chicago 10-4.

Bouton in Trouble

Miller came on in the seventh with the Orioles trailing 1-0 against Jim Bouton. But Bouton, trying to make a comeback after missing almost two months with a bad arm, got in trouble on Clete Boyer's two-base throwing error in the eighth. Andy Etchebarren followed with a base hit that tied the game and when the ball got away from center fielder Joe Pepitone, Etchebarren made it all the way to third. Luis Aparicio's single brought him home and made Miller a winner.

Sonny Siebert, making his first start since pitching a no-hitter last Friday, was staked to an 8-2 lead in the opener against the Red Sox but needed help from Dick Radatz and Sam McDowell for his sixth victory. Whitfield homered and singled to drive in five runs.

Whitfield continued his hot hitting in the second game with another homer and two singles and Rocky Colavito's grand slam tied it for the Indians in the eighth. But George Thomas

Harrison, Gentile's Replacement, Lifts Astros Over LA, 3-0

Koufax Victim of Dierker Shutout; Aaron Stars as Braves Tip Phillies

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax finally lost a game, and part of his problem was Jim Gentile's broken bat.

Gentile's bat wasn't there, nor was Gentile, as Houston defeated Los Angeles and Koufax 3-0 Tuesday night.

But Gentile's replacement was, and he was a major factor in Koufax' first loss since April 30, a loss which snapped his eight-game winning streak.

Chuck Harrison, who took Gentile's spot on the Astros roster, was the volatile first baseman who was banished to the minors Monday, rapped a bases-loaded, two-run single in the sixth inning that broke up a scoreless battle between Koufax and young Larry Dierker.

Gentile was ordered to Oklahoma City of the Pacific Coast League following his outburst against umpire Ed Vargo Sunday.

Just Misses Umpire

In the sixth inning of the game against Chicago, Gentile slammed his bat against home plate and broke it. After Vargo ordered him out of the game, he picked up the bat and flipped it toward the plate. It bounced high in the air, just missing the umpire.

"I just lost my head," Gentile explained afterward.

He also lost his place with the Astros, and Harrison found himself in it.

The 25-year-old Texan played in 13 games for Houston at the start of the season, then was sent to Oklahoma City for more seasoning.

As far as the Astros are concerned, he came out just right.

First Shutout Since Aug. 8

His crucial single helped the 19-year-old Dierker to his first major league shutout and the Astros to their first victory over Koufax since April 14, 1963.

The game also marked the first time the Dodgers had been shut out since last Aug. 8 and the first time they had been blanked by a right-hander at home since Sept. 27, 1964.

In other National League games, San Francisco out-slugged Chicago 11-7, Cincinnati blanked Pittsburgh 3-0, Atlanta whipped Philadelphia 11-6 and St. Louis crushed New York 9-2.

Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the seventh inning, the fifth homer of the day for San Francisco, snapped a 7-7 tie with the Cubs. Chuck Estrada made his NL debut as a starter but departed after giving up a two-run single in the first inning, two-run homers to Cincinnati's Jim Maloney pitched a three-hitter for his seventh victory against two de-

Stretch Win Streak to Six Games

DUBUQUE, Ia. — With the conclusion of the first round pennant scramble drawing closer, the Fox Cities Foxes took another big step toward the Midwest League throne room here Tuesday night, squeaking by Dubuque, 3-2.

The victory, coupled with Burlington's 7-2 loss to Cedar Rapids, hiked the Foxes' lead to 3½ games over the runner-up Bees. The first round ends

Maness Rath

June 25. The Foxes carry a 6-game win chain—their longest of the season—into tonight's encounter against Dubuque.

Fred Rath, the ML's winningest pitcher, boosted his season record to 9-1 in last night's route-going performance. Rath was in trouble much of the way (though as the Packers collected 10 hits and stranded an equal number on the bases).

Rath retired the side in order in the first, sixth and ninth innings but otherwise was in trouble. On the other hand, losing pitcher Dave Block gave up only four hits, but was a victim of four errors on the part of his teammates.

The Foxes struck for one run in the first when, with two out, "Deacon" Jones worked Block for a walk after a 0-2 count. Bill Melton slammed a double down the left field line, scoring Jones.

Dubuque Takes Lead

Dubuque reached Rath for a single tally in the fifth on a walk to Sonny Jackson, a wild pitch and Orlando Centellas' single. The host Packers went ahead, 2-1, when Dennis Deptula slammed a solo homer over the 370-foot mark in left center field in the seventh inning.

A pair of errors on Roger Post, Dubuque shortstop, left Al Kristowski and Jones on first and second in the eighth inning. Melton singled to center to load the bases and Jay Peterson flied to center, scoring Kristowski to knot the game at 2-2.

The Foxes pushed across the winning run in the top of the ninth as Post erred on Bob Von Eps grounder, with Von Eps taking second on the overthrow of first. Kristowski walked and Jim Maness delivered a run-

'We're Ladies First and Golfers Second,' Claims LPGA's Ruth Jessen

By KEN HARTNETT
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ruth Jessen, a lithe blonde who looks very much the lady, is campaigning in a ladylike way to convince men there's nothing mannish about women who make their living playing golf.
"The professional lady golfer is the typical American girl," said Miss Jessen, a pro golfer since she was 19.
"She just happens to be a professional golfer instead of let's say a professional secretary."
In fact, the only difference between lady golfers and lady secretaries is that we're always traveling.
Miss Jessen, 29, is president of the Ladies Professional Golf Association. She is also one of the top players on the ladies tour.
"Ladies First."
The tour is in Milwaukee for the Jacee Open. The 72-hole tournament opens Thursday.
"We're ladies first and golfers second," said Miss Jessen. "It's as simple as that."
Miss Jessen invited the sceptical to take a look at the ladies on the tour.

May, an outfielder from Birmingham, Ala., is a switch hitter and batted .352 at Parker High School in Birmingham.
He was signed to a "substantial bonus and will report to Chicago's Sarasota club in Florida's rookie league."
May will take part in the college scholarship program.

against Pittsburgh starter Woody Fryman.
Hank Aaron led Atlanta's attack, smashing a two-run homer, singling home another run and scoring still another on Clay Dalrymple's throwing error.
After Philadelphia pulled to within 7-6 in the eighth inning, Joe Torre slammed a three-run triple in the ninth.
Jerry Ruchek's two-run homer powered a six-run second inning that carried St. Louis past New York. The Mets' Dick Rustek, who posted a shutout in his major league debut Friday night, was the victim of the outburst. Lou Brock collected four hits and stole two bases for the Cardinals.

Should it be like asking a favor to get your car serviced after the sale?

Come to where you're treated like a customer instead of a charity case - at The Dodge Boys.

No red tape. No indifferent service managers. No bills that leave you breathless.
Just a few more reasons more people are joining the Dodge Rebellion. A Dodge Boys' service manager knows that you don't want to stand around all day before someone comes up to see what you're doing there. He knows you don't like to pay for coffee breaks. He knows you may want to talk to the guy who worked on your car. He knows you may want an explanation of what you're paying for.
You deserve it all. Nobody gives service away. An auto dealer counts on service for income. He's not doing you a favor to service your car. You're doing him one.
So do us a favor. Try The Dodge Boys for service. We sell a lot of Dodges that way.

Y'gotta be a good guy if you want to be a Dodge Boy

Stanky Puts Club Through Extra Drill

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Eddie Stanky, fuming over his Chicago White Sox' latest swoon, including seven defeats in the last eight games, called a special batting session Tuesday following a 10-4 loss to the California Angels.

It seemed a strange move for two reasons. First, the Sox had played until 1:30 a.m. Tuesday morning in completing a two-night split with the Angels, which began Monday.

In addition to Tuesday's game, the Sox have another two-night program against Kansas City in their rigorous schedule.

And, although the Sox certainly have been in need of more hitting, the extra session was called after a game in which the Sox slammed out 15 hits.

The Angels, however, resorted to sheer power and knocked out three home runs — two by Ed Kirkpatrick — a triple and two doubles in their total of 10 hits. But for the Sox, 14 of their hits were singles.

The Sox are hoping to change their fortunes at the expense of the A's.

OSU'S Arlin Checks USC on 3 Hits, 6-2

St. John, Only Other Unbeaten '9' in NCAA Test, Faces Buckeyes

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG be in the District 2 tourney — if you talk to Seton Hall fans. The selection of St. John's created an uproar because the Redmen lost five of their last eight regular season games and tied for second behind Seton Hall in the Metropolitan Conference.

Based On 1.76 ERA Selection was based on the club's 1.76 pitching staff earned run average and solid .281 team batting average. The Redmen have gone unbeaten since their selection for a 257 mark, taking the committee off the spot.

"This is one of our finest teams," said Jack Kaiser, 39-year-old St. John's coach. "We're deep and we've got guts."

Little Matt Galante, a fiery second baseman, has a .405 batting average and has handled 130 straight chances without an error. St. John's tied a college world series record with four double plays Tuesday night.

Kaiser will start a big right-hander, Bob Smith, 5-0 with a 1.61 ERA, against Ohio State, 8:30 p.m., CST. Marty Karow will go with his No. 2 man, Dick Boogs, sophomore right-hander, who is 5-1 and 1.68.

USC will send right-hander Ray Lamb, 8-5, against Arizona's Gale Kennedy, 9-3 right-hander, at 2 p.m.

Pierce to Start Oklahoma State will start shots were solo homers, while John Pierce, a curve balling the other was a 2-run clout.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy have won 11 of 13 so far after holding out the first 32 days of spring training.

"When I was so late reporting," he said, "I figured I would do well to be maybe 6-7 by now."

"Finishing Hitters" "They say I am finessing the hitters, but it might be more of a case of the hitters looking for the real good fast ball and being fooled. I'm not throwing as hard as I used to and my curve isn't as good either."

Koufax said his arthritic left elbow has done a complete reversal since last season when he was a 26-game winner.

"Last year," he said, "the elbow didn't bother me when I was pitching, but it would hurt between starts. This year, it only hurts when I pitch."

Nevertheless, Koufax has a microscopic 1.54 earned run average in his bid to win the National League's ERA title for the fifth year in a row. That would tie the NL record for most ERA titles set by Grover Cleveland Alexander in 1915-16-17-19-20.

Broke Scoreless Tie The Astros, who hadn't beaten Koufax since April 14, 1963, broke a scoreless tie in the sixth inning after a clean single by Joe Morgan and infield hits by Sonny Jackson and Dave Nicholson loaded the bases with one out.

Rookie first baseman Chuck Harrison then bounced a two-run single through the hole at shortstop.

Bob Aspromonte hit a leadoff homer off Koufax in the seventh inning.

Dierker, 3-1, became the first right-hander to shut out Los Angeles at Dodger Stadium since September, 1964. It was his first shutout in the majors.

The Dodgers have lost three in a row and have fallen two games behind San Francisco in the National League race.

Distance Markers Placed on Longer Holes for 'Open'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U.S. Golf Association is breaking with tradition in the National Open Golf Tournament that starts Thursday and has placed markers at 250 yards on certain long par 4 and par 5 holes.

"This represents a departure from a policy of the United States Golf Association," the USGA said in a statement, "which has not heretofore used distance markers for its championships in the conviction that ability to judge distance is part of the skill of the game."

"The new procedure was made solely in the interests of informing spectators," the USGA statement said.

The markers on the Olympic Country Club Course were set up at holes No. 1, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 16 and 17.

Seims Recalled As Master Of Defense

chances. In the re-match, not only did AHS win, but "Hoppy" set an all-time FRVC record of 51 points (a mark that still stands).

Quiet Leadership Goemans, who is now coaching the Green Bay-UM Center, remembers that Seims got the same results from his quiet type of leadership that a firebrand coach can get. Seims also had a knack of handling each boy as an individual, Goemans notes.

Seims emphasized defense, according to Goemans, because that is a "constant," while offense is a "variable" from game to game. "He was 20 years ahead of his time with his defensive coaching," says Goemans.

Seims is mainly remembered ever been around here. "Coach as a basketball coach, but for a es discussed defense with Seims time he was also head coach of years after he had retired," said Boya.

Controlled The Ball Another secret to Seims' success is that he kept his offense simple, according to Boya. Don added that Seims was in control of the situation at all times, and "I never saw him lose his temper."

Stu Locklin, who played for Seims for three years and later played for the University of Wisconsin and the Cleveland Indians, said Seims was exceptionally cool on the bench. He did fire the team up once in a while for a big game, but the only time Seims became irritated with his players was when he felt they weren't putting out, said Locklin.

Locklin indicated that not too much stress was put on offense because of the effectiveness of AHS' 2-3 zone. "He taught us to control the ball and work for a good shot," said Stu.

However, the fast break was far from unknown 20 years ago, said Locklin. The Terrors were usually in good rebounding position, and whenever they had a chance to catch the opposition unaware, they'd fast break, Locklin recalls.

AHS football coach Ade Dillon, who was a coaching and teaching colleague of Seims' for about 24 years, called Myrlon "a great guy." He was very forceful in his own quiet way, says Dillon, and his fairness made all his athletes want to play for him. Seims was a perfectionist in his coaching approach, Dillon indicated.

Lunar Visitor Surveyor 1 takes a picture of its own shadow against the moon's surface as the evening sun furnishes proper lighting. (AP Wirephoto)

Surveyor 1 Starts Ordeal Of Lunar Night

Has Sent More Than 10,000 High Quality Photographs

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's efficient eye on the moon, Surveyor 1, will be permanently blind if its electric heart fails to survive the super-cold lunar night, scientists report.

Surveyor, the brilliantly successful first attempt by the United States to land a spacecraft gently on the moon, was engulfed by the lunar night Tuesday after sending more than 10,000 high quality photos.

The night holds the peril of temperatures near 260 degrees below zero. Fahrenheit—cold enough to freeze and perhaps destroy Surveyor's battery, its heart. Lunar night is two weeks long in earth time.

In the last rays of sunlight Tuesday, Surveyor recorded a vivid show, picturing bright, high ridges accented by deep shadows, an eerie, almost surrealistic display.

The most spectacular shot, perhaps, was a picture showing the elongated shadow of the spacecraft cast a great distance across the lunar surface.

Other pictures, made as the sun dipped slowly over the horizon, showed a faint glow on the horizon which scientists said might indicate the moon has a light atmosphere. The gas, they said, could come from the sun or even from the moon's interior.

More Expected For Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands more Army infantrymen are expected to arrive in South Viet Nam this summer to intensify search-and-destroy operations which already may have thrown the Communists off balance.

There was speculation that elements of an additional Army infantry division may be included in the 18,000-man U.S. reinforcement which Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has approved for movement in coming weeks.

The Army now has three full divisions and two brigades in action in Viet Nam. Marines have two divisions committed to the war.

Man Acquitted of Murder Ordered Freed From Mental Hospital

RACINE (AP) — A Racine man acquitted in the shotgun slayings of an elderly couple two years ago was ordered released from a state hospital Tuesday.

Larry McElvain, 30, was freed by Judge Howard DuRocher after two psychiatrists testified he was sane. McElvain had been committed to the Central State Hospital at Waupun in November, 1964, after a 12-member jury found him innocent by reason of insanity in the Fourth of July slayings that year of Mr. and Mrs. William Dunse of Racine.

Wisconsin Police May Join Unions Judge Says

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Police in Wisconsin can join a labor union and negotiate with a community, a judge ruled Tuesday.

The Milwaukee suburb of Greenfield was forbidden from interfering with union organization efforts.

The ruling was handed down by Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller and cited a 1962 law giving public employees the right to bargain collectively.

Greenfield had disciplined two police sergeants for joining a union.

Union leader John C. Zinos hailed the ruling as clearing the way for efforts for union organization of other law enforcement departments, including sheriff's forces.

Zinos is director of District Council 48 of the State, County and Municipal Employees' Union. It formed Police Local 1127 last year, signed up members in the Greenfield police force, and said it would organize all suburban police departments.

Greenfield Police Chief Howard O. Wahlen had said he didn't want his men to join a national union.

Junta Vows to Remain In Power 1 More Year

Misunderstanding Halts Mass March

Courthouse Doors Closed But Civic Leaders Helpful

GRENADA, Miss. (AP) — Officials held clerks at the Grenada County courthouse until 8:30 Tuesday night for Negro voter registrants. Only six came.

"Let the clerks go home," decided civil rights leaders who had led the Mississippi march into Grenada.

No one told some 250 Negroes meeting in a church. They marched to the courthouse only to find the office closed.

"If we can't register (sic), we're going to demonstrate," they chanted.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro leaders huddled with officials in a doorway. Then, standing at the base of a Confederate statue, King asked the crowd to leave.

Milling Stops

"I ask you to be out tomorrow in larger numbers," he said.

The chanting and milling stopped and the demonstrators disappeared. Those who had marched nine miles to Grenada, earlier in the day went to tents set up on the Willie Wilson Elementary School grounds. Local people went home.

"It was a breakdown in communication on our part," King told the officials and apologized. King, Floyd McKissick and other Negro leaders, in planning for mass registrations today, found white civic leaders cooperative.

Agreement was reached to have four Negroes help in the registrations and to keep the office open longer than the normal Wednesday noon closing. The officials also agreed to open registration places in Negro districts to accommodate those who could not come to the courthouse.

The doorway discussion was between King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality; Bradford Dye, city attorney; Sheriff Suggs Ingram and Charles Snodgrass, who heads the highway patrol unit that has guarded the marchers on their trek from Memphis, Tenn.

225 Mile March

Some of the veterans marchers went to Negro homes to take their first bath in days. They are nearly 100 miles from Memphis, where James H. Meredith started the 225-mile march to the state capital at Jackson. Meredith was shot the next day and is recuperating in New York.

Aubrey James Norvell, the 40-year-old white man accused of shooting Meredith, failed Tuesday in a bid to get his $25,000 bond reduced. The judge said it had not been proven that his family is unable to raise the bond or that Norvell is suffering physically and emotionally in

Chicago Mayor Triumphs in Test During Primary

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley scored an across-the-board triumph in a test of his leadership and prestige in Tuesday's primary election.

His once-defeated, six-item, multimillion-dollar municipal bond issue for lighting, sewer, transportation, police-fire and other community improvements carried by a margin of more than 2 to 1.

Two veteran Chicago congressmen backed by Daley's Democratic organization—Reps. William L. Dawson, 80, long-time political leader among South Side Negroes, and Barratt O'Hara, 84, won despite vigorous campaigns by opponents of less than half their ages.

Other primary highlights: —Republican Charles H. Percy breezed past token opposition life by limiting the role of the Constituent Assembly, elected Sept. 11, to writing a constitution. It thus rejected the recommendation of its own electoral commission that proposed letting the assembly live on as a legislative body with power to name a civilian government and make laws for it to administer.

Statewide

—Ray Page, 44, Republican superintendent of public instruction, won renomination in the only other statewide race by defeated Robert A. Campbell, Worth truck driver.

Victories were posted by the only other congressmen facing primary opposition — Democrats Kenneth J. Gray of West Frankfort in the 21st District and George E. Shipley of Olney in the 23rd District.

Two famous names remained in the political spotlight. Earl Eisenhower, younger brother of the former president, became the Republican nominee for Cook County (Chicago) clerk. Adlai E. Stevenson III, son of the late U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, became the Democratic nominee for state treasurer. Both are state

Tear Gas Used

Car Wrecked, Stores Looted in Amsterdam

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP) — Six hundred police reinforcements poured into Amsterdam today after the most serious riot in the Netherlands' largest city in 30 years.

With some 1,100 policemen on duty, the city was calm again. Police used tear gas for the first time in the city's history last night to disperse rioting construction workers protesting the death of a bricklayer in a demonstration on Monday.

Car wrecking, store smashing and some looting was reported after young hoodlums joined in the riot.

Police said 63 civilians and 28 policemen were injured and 30 persons were arrested. Some 1,500 workers took to the streets. The public prosecutor announced after an autopsy that the bricklayer had a weak heart and died of natural causes.

The workers stormed the offices of the independent newspaper De Telegraaf in protest against its report on the Monday demonstration, called to protest the building trade union's decision to charge nonunion members 2 per cent for cashing their vacation bonuses.

U. S. Planes Hit Targets 8 Miles From Haiphong; Buddhists Riot in Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's ruling junta vowed today to remain in power until next year in blunt defiance of military institutions provided by Buddhist demands for its the constitution.

Obviously confident of its power, the junta risked new agitation from the militant Buddhists, who have been clamoring for the immediate relinquishment of power by the ruling generals to a civilian government.

Johnson Carefully Studies Image Of Himself From Television Talks

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Land don B. Johnson is the first triple-screen president in history. He has a habit of watching three television screens simultaneously — each carrying a different program.

This is one measure of Johnson's keen interest in the opinion-molding potential of television. It also reflects his interest in watching — and studying — his own filmed-in-advance appearances on television news-casts.

Of course, the triple screen receivers in the White House and at the LBJ Ranch in Texas create a problem. Johnson can watch three screens, but can tune in on the sound from only one channel at a time, using a remote control button to pick up the voice he wants.

Improve Technique
Since taking office the President has devoted many hours considering ways to improve his television technique. His latest move was to abandon the mechanical prompting devices he once used. Most observers believe he is more relaxed and natural with out them.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, first president to make use of television, turned to Hollywood for expert advice. He enlisted the service of actor-producer Robert Montgomery to give him pointers on delivery and help in arranging proper lighting for television appearances.

Johnson does not rely on just one coach. He weighs advice from many sources in and out of the White House. And he studies film clips of his own sessions before the camera to judge for himself.

TV Experiment
During 2½ years in the White House, Johnson has experimented with prompting devices, facial makeup, lighting, contact lenses and — lately — adopted carefully chosen mechanical aids. The President has been departing from his prepared texts more often to become indulgent in homey off-the-cuff remarks and philosophizing and storytelling.

Jack Valenti, before leaving the White House to become president of the Motion Picture Association of America, was at which he excels perhaps the closest equivalent. Scrapping of the prompters to a resident television adviser. More recently, deputy press secretary Robert H. Fleming, former Washington bureau chief of the American Broadcasting Co., has aided.

The recent addition to Johnson's staff of Robert E. Kintner, former president of the National Broadcasting Co., prompted speculation he would take on a Robert Montgomery-type role. That hasn't happened.

Valenti and Fleming apparently were most responsible for Johnson's abandonment of a prompter system that flashed his speech texts before him on one-way mirrors propped up to the left and right of him.

Use Manuscript
Johnson got rid of the prompters in early 1966. Since then he has been reading his speeches from manuscripts typed in large letters and bound in looseleaf notebooks.

Besides appearing more relaxed and natural without the mechanical aids, the President has been departing from his prepared texts more often to become indulgent in homey off-the-cuff remarks and philosophizing and storytelling.

Scrapping of the prompters

President Johnson Watches three each, frequently, carrying a different television sets simultaneously, with program (AP Wirephoto)

also has freed Johnson from a monster of electronics and car came to be called "Mother," least two trips to the White House so Johnson could try on, because it allegedly rivaled G- for their approval and his own, scores of different eyeglass frames. None was found quite suitable.

New Eyeglasses
The President also equipped himself recently with a new pair of eyeglasses with transparent plastic rims. He had been searching since 1964 for the "right" kind of glasses to wear. Once an optician and a televi-a problem. Johnson has been a hard man to please in that department. Sometimes he complains the lights are too hot and make him perspire. On other occasions he argues they blind him.

For ceremonial speeches in the East Room of the White House, the President now uses a portable lighting rig that seems to meet all his major objections. Like "The Rock," it's a monstrous affair, mounted on four tall metal posts. It looks rather grotesque to the audience in the room but isn't seen by television viewers.

Used Makeup
The President has experimented too, with facial makeup but, recently, has discarded it.

Many believe Johnson's most recent experiences before the camera rank with his better efforts — even rivaling at times the free-wheeling extemporaneous stump speeches of his 1964 campaign.

In delivering formal addresses, however, Johnson still sticks closely to his written text. The end product remains quite stiff on those occasions. No speechwriter, it seems, has yet been able to capture the full flavor of the President's off-the-cuff language. When he lets himself go, this remains his greatest single asset on the public platform.

Three Charged With Murder In Mississippi

Two Were Listed As Members of Ku Klux Klan

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — Three white men charged with murdering a Negro man, whose body was found in a creek near here, have been taken to state police headquarters for lie detector tests.

Sheriff Odell Anders said Claude Fuller, 46, of Kingston; Ernest Avants, 35, of Washington; and James Lloyd Jones, 56, of Natchez, were being held without bond. He said all three are papermill workers.

Two of the men charged Tuesday night were listed earlier this year by the House Committee on Un-American Activities as past or present members of Ku Klux Klan organizations.

Authorities charged the three with the fatal shooting of Ben Chester White, 65, in Kingston, June 10. White's body was found three days ago in Pretty Creek.

Shot 16 Times
He had been shot 16 times in the chest and arms with a rifle, Anders said, and his head had been partially blown away by a shotgun blast.

White had no connection with any civil rights activities in this area, said Dist. Atty. Lennox Foreman.

Natchez has been scene of Negro demonstrations during the past year. Civil rights forces led a boycott of white merchants for many months. The area repeatedly has been described as a hotbed of Klan activity.

The House committee probed Klan activities earlier this year and on Feb. 4 made public the names of persons it said were employed by the International Paper Co. at Natchez "who are past or present members" of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of Mississippi or the United Klans of America.

The list included the names of Ernest H. Avants and Claude W. Fuller.

Sheriff Anders took Fuller, Avants and Jones to Jackson, Miss., for lie detector tests Tuesday night.

Lobby Law Grand Jury Gives Report

MADISON (AP) — The Dane County grand jury probing possible violations of the state's lobbying law offered a progress report to a circuit court judge Tuesday.

The judge, Richard W. Bardwell, said he thought the 11-week investigation might be nearing an end "pretty soon."

Bardwell said only that the 17-member jury made a "progress report" to him and asked several questions. He didn't elaborate on the questions.

The grand jury investigation began March 28. It evidently centered its inquiries on conservation legislation at first, but has turned its apparent attention in more recent weeks to an unsuccessful attempt to repeal the state's ban on ranch banking.

Dist. Atty. Michael Torphy acknowledged one witness testified Tuesday. He did not identify him. No witness was seen entering the grand jury room.

Torphy was one of only four persons not a juror known to have entered the room during the seven-hour session. The others were an assistant attorney general and two Milwaukee attorneys who had advised a lady lobbyist called last week.

Seaway Strike Would Stop Lakes Commerce

OTTAWA (AP) — A strike on the St. Lawrence Seaway would damage Canada's economy and bring Great Lakes commerce to a standstill, the Dominion Marine Association warned Tuesday.

"The seaway is a national resource on which thousands of Canadians depend for their livelihood," said a statement by the association representing Canada's inland fleet.

The federal government is mediating the dispute between the Seaway Authority and Canadian workers who called a strike for Friday to back up their demands for more pay.

Daley's Bond Issue Okayed

representatives and were unopposed.

Mayor Daley spearheaded a massive campaign to win support for his $195 million municipal bond issue. A similar $46 million bond issue was defeated in 1962 and some observers interpreted the result as a waning of Daley's leadership prowess.

The Chicago Association of Commerce, some civil rights groups, Roman Catholic Archbishop John Patrick Cody and Charles H. Percy — among others — gave the bond issues support.

Civil Rights
Opposition came from other civil rights organizations, the Property Owners Coordinating Council and a majority of the Republican ward committees. They contended the plans were vague, taxes might be increased, schools should have priority on such cash and Negro areas might be uprooted.

Daley said President Johnson telephoned him congratulations on the bond victory. The President, during the 1964 campaign, described Daley as "the greatest political leader in the nation."

Dawson, an 11-term veteran in the 1st District, polled more votes than the combined total of his two opponents, both also Negroes.

One, Fred Hubbard, 36-year-old social worker, was the spearhead of Negro hopes to build political power outside the Daley organization. The other, Ronald L. Williams, an attorney, did not campaign actively.

O'Hara faced stiff opposition in the 2nd District from 40-year-old Abner Mikva, an independent-minded state representative whose views frequently collided with Daley's position.

Helicopter Blows Sailboat Out of Danger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Coast Guard helicopter with an ingenious pilot used its blades Tuesday to blow a demasted sailboat away from a rocky Pacific Ocean shore.

Blown out to sea far enough so that a fishing craft could take her in tow was the 20-foot Adventurer, manned by Jack Lapatra and James Chesney.

Operation Successful!

Italian Siamese Twins Can Lead Normal Lives

By FRANCESCO MENNELLA GARDONE, Italy (AP) —

Two 7-year-old girls who never talk about their past look forward happily to their future in an amazing new world of normal life.

They are Santina and Giuseppina Foglia, Siamese twin sisters born joined at the spine. They were separated in a five-hour operation May 10, 1965.

Since then they have learned to walk separately, even ride bicycles. Perhaps most remarkable of all they have learned to forget their six years in a Turin clinic. They refer to that part of their life simply as "prima" — before.

Vital Lively
"They are extraordinarily vital and lively. There is no visible difference to be noticed when they play with their schoolmates," says Maria Tumminelli. She is owner and director of the Tumminelli Boarding School in this Lake Garda resort where the twins now stay.

After their operation by a team of 15 specialists headed by Prof. Luigi Solerio, the two girls were kept under close medical observation during months of physical and psychological readjustment. They had to re-ager was found Sunday night on a blood-soaked mattress in the Jewell home. A dozen or more knives were arranged around the body.

La Crosse County Sheriff Paul R. Wuest said Comeau had signed a 12-page statement in which he admitted he struck the girl on the head with a soft drink bottle after the couple returned from a swimming date. The statement also admitted mutilation of the body, the sheriff said.

Comeau was convicted two years ago of enticing the Jewell girl for immoral purposes and was placed on probation.

Mental Treatment
Court-appointed defense attorney William Skemp told Judge Roraff the probation terms provided for psychiatric treatment for Comeau and said he would try to arrange for it.

Comeau was discovered sitting next to a bush in a patch of woods and watching the posse search for him Monday night in the Sand Lake coulee area near Onalaska.

Dennis Borchert, 19, who knew Comeau slightly found him and asked if he was armed. Comeau said he wasn't.

"I told him the police were down there," Borchert said. "I told him no one would hurt him."

Comeau walked out of the woods with Borchert and surrendered quietly.

Black Sambo To Be Kept In Library

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A request by a Negro group to take the children's book, "Little Black Sambo," off the shelves of the city's libraries has been rejected by the Seattle Library Board.

Wayne Booth, president of the board, said the story of a native boy in India outwitting hungry tigers has no racial overtones.

Booth said the request of the Central Area Action Committee amounted to an attempt to censor books in the city's libraries. The board rejected the request Tuesday.

Keve Bray, executive director of the group which sought the book ban, said the story is derogatory of Negroes.

Pail of Tension
A pall of tension fell over the neighborhood as dusk came Tuesday night.

With Capt. James Holzman's "clear the streets with a smile" as a guide, police made repeated sweeps up and down the streets, each time guiding residents off sidewalks and porches into their homes.

They had been given an ultimatum: Get inside or be arrested. Most went inside.

Holzman, directed by Police Supt. O. W. Wilson Tuesday to end the rioting, moved down the streets with his men as they repeatedly shouted at residents.

David Uhllein, president of Oshkosh, said his firm would take over the brewing of Rahr beer and retain the Green Bay company's sales and distribution personnel. Rahr manufac-to stay indoors and keep windows closed.

Police helicopters buzzed overhead. A dozen policemen stood at each intersection. Sidewalks were lined with patrolmen. Priests and nuns milled with the crowd, pleading with them to go home.

Many residents hooted and jeered police but few attempted to block the sweeping operation.

There were several rock-throwing incidents. One policeman was injured when struck in the side.

As darkness closed over the area, tension thickened. Police constantly broke up groups congregating on corners, in front of restaurants and shops and in a neighborhood park.

Nam's second city 60 miles east of the capital, Hanoi. In all, Navy and Air Force pilots flew 74 multiplane missions in a continuation of the heavy bombings since weather over the north cleared two weeks ago.

The fighting between the U. S. 101st Airborne Division and North Viet Nam's 24th Regiment declined to light exchanges of fire in South Viet Nam's high plateau 290 miles northeast of Saigon, after the paratroopers wrote off the enemy force of 1,400 to 2,000 men as an effective fighting force.

But 400 South Vietnamese infantrymen overcame strong enemy resistance in a surprise dawn attack on a Viet Cong base two miles from the Cambodian frontier west of Saigon. They killed 11 Communists, captured three and a large stock of ammunition, and forced the Viet Cong to flee, a government spokesman said.

The third consecutive day of rioting in Saigon after a two-week political truce was on a small scale, and the troops and police quickly broke up the demonstrations. They arrested two truckloads of antigovernment medical students in a free-swinging melee in which they also roughed up three foreign newsmen and injured one of them, an Australian.

8,100 Students Register for UW Summer Session

MADISON (AP) — The University of Wisconsin's summer session has a greater enrollment than many colleges throughout the nation can attract in the fall.

School officials report a record total of 8,100 students have registered for summer classes this year.

The number is 1,000 more than last year's total for the same period. University officials predict the figure may reach 13,400 by August when the final segment of the summer studies starts.

This total would be a 15 per cent increase over the 1965 tally.

In addition, another 20,000 persons are expected to visit the campus this summer to attend more than 100 non-credit conferences and workshops.

National Views on Wisconsin Election

In a national survey of the 35 elections for governor this fall, the Christian Science Monitor reports that in Wisconsin "a head-on battle is being waged between the Kennedy and Humphrey supporters of Wisconsin."

The Monitor's account is a familiar one in the national press and no amount of provincial explanations from Wisconsin politicians is going to change the stereotype of the Democratic contest for the nomination for governor. Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey is being backed by Sen. Robert Kennedy and David Carley, national party committeeman, is being backed by Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, and that is that as far as the national press is concerned.

"Mr. Lucey is a former state party chairman. He was a leader in John F. Kennedy's Wisconsin primary campaign against Hubert H. Humphrey in 1960. Mr. Carley is said to be close to Mr. Humphrey," explains the Monitor report which also includes the opinion that Gov. Warren Knowles is the favorite for re-election regardless of the outcome of the Democratic primary.

While the Democratic contest can be expected to be based on state issues as the September primary approaches, the national press accounts are accurate in that the past affiliations of Lt. Gov. Lucey and Mr. Carley with the vice-president and Sen. Kennedy will be a factor in ballots cast by the party faithful. And Mr. Carley, with praises from the liberal establishment of Dane County, has been busy trying to demonstrate that he likes Sen. Kennedy just as much as the lieutenant governor does.

This doubtless helped Mr. Carley to decide to issue his views on Viet Nam in which he called for a cease-fire, direct negotiations with the Viet Cong, North Viet Nam, China, and Russia, and placing of the Viet Nam affair in the hands of an international body. Sen. Kennedy has been able to make suggested policy changes for Viet Nam while Vice President Humphrey because of his position within the administration must agree in total with the President.

But the affiliation of Lt. Gov. Lucey with Sen. Kennedy dating from the 1960 primary is well known to the Democratic voters of Wisconsin, and in running for a state office there has been no reason for Mr. Lucey to comment on Sen. Kennedy's views on Viet Nam. This silence also keeps him within the camp of President Johnson.

For whatever it is worth in an election campaign for a state office, Lt. Gov. Lucey at present is winning it both ways on the Viet Nam issue.

Educational Television Is Not Free

A man in a position to know charges that educational television avoids important current issues if they are controversial. Ed Bayley, Lawrence alumnus, former Wisconsin newspaperman, holder of top public information posts in the national government and now vice-president of National Educational Television, says educational television stations cannot be independent and impartial if they receive government financial support.

"If there is government support for making programs in public affairs, the government is going to want to tell us what programs to make and what to say about the issues," Bayley said. He continued that members of NET refused to run NET programs on controversial issues or which were critical of government officials. "A substantial number of our affiliated stations are licensed to universities or to state boards or commissions. All of these stations worry about the legislature from which they get their funds."

Bayley's point was that if educational television is to be free it must be supported by contributions from private individuals. But there may be a fallacy in this respect also. Suppose large donors have some idea about what kind of programs educational stations should carry or should not carry.

Maybe Bayley's point leads back to the position that commercial television in the long run will be the freest to pursue aggressive educational programming. In its early stage of development commercial TV is still much too conscious of audience ratings because that is what advertisers are buying. But newspapers established their independence from dictation by advertisers or government, and television as it matures can do likewise.

Winnie-the-Pooh Abridged

The reliance of some educators upon the Puff, Puff, Puff type of reading for beginners has brought about a disaster. A publisher in England is putting out a condensed version of Winnie-the-Pooh with some 90 per cent of the original deleted.

Christopher Robin Milne, the son of the author and for whom the book was written almost half a century ago, says that he was only five at the time but that he had no trouble understanding it. But that was in a different era, before educators had determined that children at varying age and reading levels could assimilate only a certain number of simple words. In those days parents had not been warned not to speak to children as if they were idiots capable of understanding only the simplest phrases. And generations of youngsters, sometimes too young to read themselves, chuckled as they heard Pooh's mispronouncements of long words and Piglet's hysterical description of the "heffalump."

Maybe the Post Office Department will be able to put a ban on the importation of the condensed version as it managed to for years for different reasons with Ulysses and Lady Chatterley's Lover. Certainly portraying Winnie-the-Pooh, Eeyore, and Rabbit with all his Friends-And-Relations in any other way than Milne did is criminally subversive.

Head Start Called Off

The Project Head Start programs of the anti-poverty campaign are going to have to be curtailed. The money allotted for this year has already been spent and there are some $20 million in requests that must go unheeded. But the money being ladled out in big salaries to a variety of anti-poverty employees doesn't seem to run into the same problem.

Of all the anti-poverty programs, the Head Start one has appeared to be the most valuable. It does not run into the trouble of delinquency which continues to plague some Job-Corps camps. There is no resistance in neighborhoods to the establishment of Head Start programs for preschool youngsters of deprived homes. And in the long run, the program can probably do more real good than any of the other projects which deal with people sometimes too old or set in their paths of despair to help. Pilot programs of a few hours of school for young children, which predated the Head Start program, have amply demonstrated the value of the assistance given to such children in preparing to read and in getting along with other children and adults.

Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, chairman of the House committee dealing with the anti-poverty programs, has recently announced his intentions of marrying one of his aides. But Powell's third wife, who has lived in Puerto Rico for almost a year, is still drawing a $19,000 salary from the federal government as she has since the marriage in 1960. Her work is to handle Puerto Rican correspondence for Congressman Powell. It has not yet been announced whether the new Mrs. Powell will be suitably raised in salary or whether the old one will keep her lucrative job. But it is no wonder that there is a good deal of cynicism around the country about the intents of the anti-poverty program.

It is apparent that little can be done to squelch Congressman Powell. He has fought for years loss of a suit in New York to a woman who successfully prosered him for slander. But he has no serious opposition in his Harlem constituency.

But when an entire federal program appears to be pervaded with something close to deceit, it is cause for alarm. The whole attitude appears to be symbolized by the telephone address of anti-poverty headquarters in New York City. Although the agency is located on Madison Avenue, the listed address is the side door because of the idea that Madison Avenue and anti-poverty simply don't go together.

We've always suspected that a good measure of the President's anti-poverty program was politically motivated. It just could be that the failures of most of the projects thus far could have a healthy boomerang effect that is well deserved among Washington planners.

Appleton-New London Railway

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 8, 1866.

We invite special attention of the people residing in the rich valley between the Fox and Wolf Rivers to the notice of the Directors of the Appleton and New London Railway Company, announcing the opening of books of subscription to the capital stock. Although it is hardly probable that any steps can be taken for the immediate commencement of this important work, it is wise to adopt all necessary measures to protect the charter and be prepared at any moment to break ground and put the project into actual operation.

To convince every resident of Appleton that in addition to the main road to New London, they have a deep interest in this charter, we quote the following provision from the act in question.

"Said company shall have the right to extend its road, or to build a branch road or roads, from the City of Appleton to any point in Calumet County where it will intersect with the Manitowoc and Mississippi Railroad, or to any point in Winnebago County where it will intersect with the

18 Million Americans Have Direct Interest in What Wall Street Does

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Not long ago the New York Stock Exchange traded 13 million shares on the downside during one day and the tape was 23 minutes late at the close.

"What'amalla?" as Charlie Chan used to say.

About 18 million Americans

have a direct interest, and 82 million an indirect interest, in the stock market. This exceeds our total working population by 27 million, according to the National Association of Life Insurance Underwriters.

On February 9 the Dow-Jones averages hit an all-time high in a drizzle of golden cheers—bobbing at the mystic 1,000 level. And when a shot is fired like this decline, led by the finest equities there are, no one can ever know the echoes from it or how far the echoes will carry.

Aside from the undeniable effort on public buying power and the financing of corporate development by the sale of stock (AT&T is a prime example), jobs, payrolls, the tax revenues on which Washington depends, debt retirement and the whole virtuous cycle of expansion or the vicious cycle of doubt and contraction can become involved.

NO AUTOMATIC ANSWER

Nobody has an automatic answer to successful investing but from the individual point of view the fundamental problem is to decide whether the great bull market long ago the longest in history—is over.

It is small comfort to this column to point to the articles of last December, and earlier, and say, "I told you so." Nor is there any joy in saying that this decline which was then foreseen will continue in the way that now looks so plain to so many. This market may well recover.

The element that delivers a rabbit punch to chart makers and statisticians, valuable as they are, is the element of surprise. Surprise—the unexpected—is the only absolute certainty in Wall Street. And this can work both ways.

Moreover, in Wall Street you can talk about the averages but you do not, and cannot, buy the averages. Much depends on the individual stock you own, although it will surely be affected by the trend as a whole and especially—especially—by whatever business and monetary outlook the trend is forecasting. No stock lives on an island.

The hardest task—incomparably is to decide whether the trend has changed or not. And nothing helps if this decision is wrong, including President Johnson's great and loud confidence in the unending order of good times. Nor will the promise of more government spending be decisive. How much government overspending and debt we can stand is the standing question.

Millions of people buy stock because they are going up and sell them because they are going down. The tragedy (for it is often that) can be overcome, but it takes some doing of the unnatural.

MOST PEOPLE FORGET

Millions watch the market fall many points against them and say, "On the next rally, I'll get out." This may or may not be a wise decision, depending on the individual stock. When the rally comes, however, as it must from some level, and lasts more than a few days or weeks, or even months, Wall Street history shows most people forget what they intended to do.

In their opinion the market is acting fine again. Many are only sorry they didn't buy more at the bottom. But in bear markets the rallies (very tricky) ordinarily stop short. For if it's a bear market the trend hasn't changed, of course, and the market starts down again with the savage swoop of an Arab fantasia.

Or what were dramatic falls change into a nearly daily erosion of the investment by eighths and quarters, like a thief in the night. Old Wall Street hands know this historic process, this whittling away, can put many security owners under a sort of anesthetic.

Millions seem somehow reassured merely because the stock goes down "so little" at a time. This whittling can mean major liquidation, which is seldom hurried, and it can go tragic distances.

What kind of Mongolians do the politicians think we are when they pooh-pooh the importance of the fall? Maybe they're just remembering, as shipwrecked sailors are likely to remember, an historic phenomenon: No administration has ever been re-elected in a bear market.

Young LaFollette Has Real Opportunity in Bid for Re-Election

BY ROSS WYNGAARD
MADISON There never was a real chance that Attorney General Bronson C. LaFollette would run for the governorship this year, but his formal declaration of candidacy for re-election to his position last subordinate state office will be interpreted as a prudent one by the electorate, nevertheless.

No young man who has turned up in Wisconsin politics for a long generation has begun a career quite as brilliantly as the 30-year-old who is now the chief legal officer of the state and who in the view of most realists must rank as a considerable favorite for a new term whatever the fate of his party or the success of the Republicans in other contests in the fall.

If he is successful and his ticket is otherwise defeated in state office competition, he will loom as easily the favorite for rebuilding the fight against the GOP in the future, or in the alternate, as a bidder for the U.S. Senate seat which was held for more than 40 years by his father and grandfather.

It has not been widely noted, but LaFollette could not have aspired gracefully to his party's gubernatorial nomination this year, in view of the circumstances of his own nomination for attorney general two years ago. For Lt. Gov. Lucey who wants to lead the ticket this year, was one of the friends who persuaded him, against the admonitions of other party bigwigs, that he could have the nomination for the law office in 1964.

Politicians don't always show their gratitude, but they are likely to do so when all other things are equal, or less than equal.

THE FUTURE

La Follette has performed thus far, as official and politician, with the relentless energy and care for image-building that is the hallmark of the contemporary liberal. No issue is too far out of range for his interest and his publicity releases. There is scarcely a day that his office does not churn out a bundle of material for the news agencies. Unlike many of his predecessors, moreover, has an eye for what reporters classify as "hard news." Although there is a tacit agreement that he is exceptionally aggressive in demanding a place in the limelight, there is also an acknowledgment that his offerings cannot be realistically ignored.

The contrast with some of his more sedentary predecessors is a telling one. It was not so long ago that attorney generals confined their public information service to the leisurely release of their technical opinions and briefs. These were often ignored because they were too bulky to be intelligible.

LaFollette's appeal to the voters, as documented by his crushing margin of victory two years ago, is an intriguing one in view of the history of his family in the latter day politics of the state. His forbears always operated within a Republican ticket framework, except for the brief and fatal adventure of a third party in the 1930's. Uncle Philip F. LaFollette was defeated in 1938 with such a margin as to constitute a landslide for his opponent in those days. Father Robert LaFollette Jr. led the third party back to the Republicans in 1946, and defeat.

DEMS RESENTFUL

Ambitious and issue-oriented young Democrats of those days bitterly resented the LaFollette unilateral decision for returning to the Republican label, and rebelled to take over and remold the Democratic Party which had existed in name only until that time. Those enthusiastic youngsters are now the elders of the Democratic machine and have made it into a hard-fisted challenger of the traditionally ruling Republican organization.

All those things were happening when Bronson LaFollette was a boy in short pants, but there is a certain appeal in the idea that the scion of the famous first political family of Wisconsin is now asserting successfully a viewpoint his father denied 20 years earlier. Those with a reflective turn of mind will also note that this promising young Democratic leader, a member of the Wisconsin political aristocracy as surely as are the Kennedys in Massachusetts or the Roosevelts in New York, is being challenged by the son of an immigrant on the Republican ticket in November.

Strictly Personal

Clumsy With Tools, Can't Even Open Box

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some years ago, an enterprising chap wrote "The Poor Speller's Dictionary," in which the most commonly misspelled words were not only listed with their correct spellings but under the most common misspellings as well. For, obviously, if you don't know how to spell a word properly, you can't look it up in its proper place in an ordinary dictionary.

Pursuing this sensibly line of reasoning, Harper & Row, the book publishers, include in their fall list of new books something called "The Awful Handyman's Book," by George Daniels, which is exactly what I have been looking for vainly all these years.

This is a guide for the inept home repairman, like me, who is absolutely floored by the average do-it-yourself handyman book. Daniels' opus, we are told, "assumes both ignorance and incompetence on the reader's part" — as assumption I humbly accept, and even embrace.

When I bought a house in the country some years ago, I thought it was time to overcome my vast ineptitude in the matter of repairs, and I ambled down to the local hardware store to buy a tool-chest. I examined one on display, and returned home empty-handed.

Asked by my family why I hadn't bought one, I hedged and stalled, and finally admitted in acute embarrassment that I hadn't even looked inside the tool chest — because I couldn't figure out how to get it open, and was too ashamed to ask the clerk to open it for me. I then decided that a man who couldn't even work the catch on the outside of a tool-chest had no business feeling around with the possibly fatal instruments inside.

Most books on the subject of home repairs are filled with a kind of masculine arrogance that, after two pages, makes me feel like a flustered schoolgirl. They describe a job as "simple" that would take me seven years to finish, and then would be recognizable only as the reader's part" — an retarded chimpanzee.

Moreover, they never bother to explain the purposes and uses of a lot of tools, simply saying, "Now you take the No. 2 flammerin and grasping a lockplate with an involuted dowel, you proceed to drill precisely 3/32 inches through the A-beam illustrated in Plate 34." By that time, I'm at the infirmary with two smashed fingers, and my children have been exposed to a richer and more colorful vocabulary than a Marine recruit.

"The Awful Handyman's Book" may be just the thing millions of us are looking for, an easy primer saying "This is a Hammer," and "Here is a Screw." The trouble is, those other books never start with the fundamentals—beginning, of course, with How To Open the Catch On A Tool-Chest.

Seniors Spurn Careers With Business Firms

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Corporate recruiters who swarmed over college campuses across the nation this year received the coldest shoulder from students in memory — despite the fact that they offered graduates the fattest packages ever of starting salaries, bonuses and fringe benefits.

The evidence never has been clearer that the brightest among our young men and women are shunning business in favor of the professions and public service. This disinterest is growing at a time when business is facing a severe shortage of executive talent. This distrust is spreading at a time when, as U. S. Steel chairman Roger Blough admits, "Twentieth-century business needs the young intellectual more than it ever needed him before."

One major problem is that while salaries offered by private industry are still higher than those offered would-be teachers or government employees, this wage gap is narrowing steadily and new government employees recently put the challenge to business this way: "Our task now is to build a society in which technology is harnessed barrier between business and to human fulfillment and the today's college student is in the growth of the economy is less-tangible areas of values, matched by the growth of ethics, ideals. Businessmen may harmony and respect among bitterly resent it, but the fact is men."

in response to the mounting demand for teachers and civil servants.

Another problem is that more than half of today's college graduates are going on to graduate schools and, reports Peter Drucker in the Harvard Business Review, "Business, by well as material goals — and large, neglects the graduate schools, does not know them, and is not known by them." Few corporations offer tuition-refund incentives to graduate students wishing to study something other than business techniques.

A third problem pinpointed by Drucker is that too many executives, Xerox International chairman Sol Linowitz, has just urged the U. S. Business community to grant one-year leaves of absence for employees as undemanding as possible. By wishing to volunteer in such programs as the Peace Corps or Job Corps, Henry Ford II. and new government employees immediately.

Lack Social Goals But probably the biggest which technology is harnessed barrier between business and to human fulfillment and the today's college student is in the growth of the economy is less-tangible areas of values, matched by the growth of ethics, ideals. Businessmen may harmony and respect among bitterly resent it, but the fact is men."

Yet, there are increasing signs that the youngsters this time may be lagging behind the time.

Solutions Offered One of the nation's top will be whatever today's college graduates will ultimately make "trained" programs and entrance jobs in business today urged the U. S. Business
